Twisters hit 3 Ohio areas; damage high

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes touched down in the suburbs of Cleveland and Columbus Tuesday, causing extensive property damage, but no injuries were reported.

The village of Dublin, just northwest of Columbus, was hit about 5 p.m. by a twister that overturned a car, ripped the roof off a building and uprooted trees.

About the same time northeast of Columbus in Delaware County a tornado damaged property in a brick yard.

A tornado touched down several times Tuesday night in Olmsted Township, a Cleveland suburb, damaging several buildings, a camper and a boat.

After doing damage to the buildings and camper the tornado trailed through several fields and ripped up a section of Penn Central railroad tracks before lifting from the ground for good, police said.

Showers gradually ended over the state Tuesday night with a few sprinkles still reported in the early morning hours. At dawn skies were still cloudy and temperatures were in the 50s.

The early weather map showed the cold front that brought the showery weather lay to the east of Ohio extending from western New York to northern Georgia.

Clouds will break open over the state and there should be considerable sunshine Wednesday afternoon, with high temperatures in the low and mid 70s over most of Ohio.

The National Weather Service said the good weather will be short lived. Another cold front system now moving eastward will be spreading showers into Ohio Thursday, possibly beginning in the northwest late tonight. However, rather mild temperatures are expected to continue with Thursday afternoon highs again in the 70s.

Showers and thunderstorms dampened much of the northern half of the nation today, hitting widely scattered acres with soaking rains and violent winds.

Locally heavy thunderstorms struck parts of the eastern seaboard, and a flash-flood watch was issued for the mountains and foothills of South Carolina.

Scattered thundershowers rolled across the Midwest from the lower Great Lakes to the Appalachians.

A dense cluster of violent thunderstorms in north-central Texas also spawned a pair of tornadoes.

In the Southwest, residents of several small northern Arizona communities along the Silver Creek below an earthen dam on White Mountain Lake were told to prepare for possible evacuation. The reservoir was full because of the winter snow runoff, and the dam began leaking Tuesday.

The Mississippi River remained above flood stage over most of its southern half today for the 60th day in a row. The 1844 record of 58 days above flood level was passed Tuesday.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 34 at Evanston, Wyo., to 80 at Blythe and Needles, Calif.

Five state issues fail at polls

Lottery amendment OKd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Opposition to a state lottery may be concentrated in the legislative halls this week after voters gave solid approval Tuesday to removing a constitutional prohibition against it.

Five other state constitutional changes were rejected. Voters approved an amendment to permit the legislature to change its procedures.

The lottery amendment removes a constitutional prohibition. Implementation legislation has already passed the Senate. Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, major lottery supporter, said he hopes to get the bill out of the House Rules Committee this week and headed for a floor vote.

With all polling places reporting, the lottery vote was 971,833 for and 548,133 against.

The amendment to allow the legislature to change its procedures, and put in the constitution a provision for annual sessions was approved 679,076 for and 575,881 against.

Mottl said he was "enthused" with voter response to the lottery question, which has been around the legislature four years.

The lottery was the chief item of interest on statewide ballots. There was no statewide primary races and election officials said less than 40 per cent of the voters went to the polls.

"Thank God for the big cities," Mottl said as the metropolitan areas gave the proposal a big boost. "I'm glad I'm a big city boy." Actually, the proposal wasn't in doubt from the first general recap of votes in Secretary of State Ted Brown's office.

Five constitutional amendment proposals were voted down.

They would:

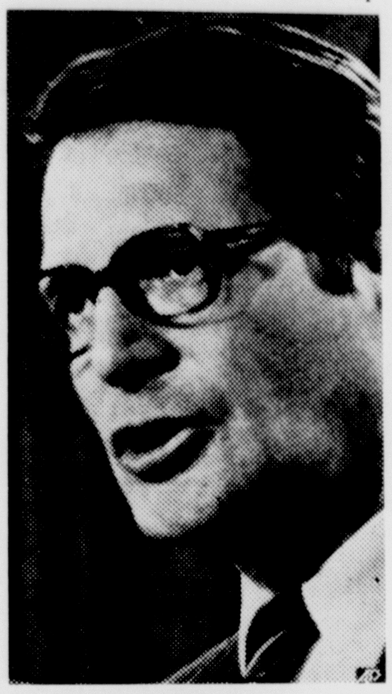

—Authorize state and local government to "quick take" private property needed for sewer and water approvements and argue over the costs with the owner later. The vote was 405,418 for; 990,726 against.

—Delete language in the constitution prohibiting convicted embezzlers from holding public office. The issue already is covered in criminal statutes. The vote was 530,227 for; 847,535 against.

—Eliminate a requirement of a Supreme Court Commission to rule on qualifications for holding public office and handle matters dealing with the court, a provision that hasn't been activated in 100 years. The vote was 564,767 for; 692,360 against.

—Authorize the legislature to amend the Supreme Court's proposed rules of procedure, which it may now consider only as a package. If the package isn't rejected, they go into effect immediately. The vote was 579,953 for; 680,719 against.

—Allow Ohio's municipal and county court judges, like those in other courts, to receive pay increases during their term of office. The vote was 646,147 for; 679,544 against.

ELLIOT RICHARDSON

Richardson meets panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson goes before the Senate Judiciary Committee today for questioning on his nomination to be attorney general with attention focused on his plans to name a special Watergate prosecutor.

No opposition has surfaced to President Nixon's nomination of Richardson, now secretary of Defense, to succeed Richard G. Kleindienst as head of the Justice Department.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told newsmen he assumes Richardson will win the unanimous approval of the Judiciary Committee.

But Mansfield said serious consideration should be given to delaying Senate confirmation of Richardson's nomination until an outside prosecutor is selected to take over the Justice Department's investigation of the Watergate case and related charges of political espionage and sabotage in last year's presidential campaign.

Mansfield said this would not be an expression of any lack of confidence in Richardson but rather a move to speed up appointment of a special prosecutor.

Richardson announced two days ago that he will appoint a special prosecutor, as Nixon authorized him to do, but said it may take "some time to find the right person."

"He must not only be an individual of the highest character and integrity but be widely so recognized," Richardson said. "He must not have been associated with any of the persons alleged or suspected to have had a part in matters under investigation."

Richardson said he would give the outside prosecutor, who would report only to him, "all the independence, authority, and staff support needed to carry out tasks entrusted to him."

Fayette Countians oppose all issues

Fayette County voters were in a negative frame of mind Tuesday as they voted against all seven state issues on the ballot, including a 773-1,335 defeat of the proposal which would open the way for a state-operated lottery.

Balloting was extremely light in the county with a total of 2,122 voters. In comparison, 10,386 persons voted in November, 1968; the heaviest Fayette County turnout in recent years. The total Tuesday included 1,056 voters in the city, and 1,066 in the county.

The only proposed constitutional change even coming close to passage in Fayette County was Issue No. 6, a proposal to authorize the legislature to revise its operating rules and to require annual sessions. This proposal was turned down 841-1,022.

ISSUE NO. 1, the state lottery question, was rejected by 562 votes. The question received approval in only three of the county's 42 precincts, and was tied in another.

Issues No. 2 and 3 were both solidly defeated in the county. Issue No. 2, a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize the state and its political subdivisions to claim unused land for water and sewer improvements with financial settlements handled in subsequent litigation, was defeated 403-1,598.

Issue No. 3, a proposal to remove langauge from the constitution prohibiting embezzlers of public funds from holding public office unless the funds are repaid, was turned down 596-1,418. Issue No. 2 and No. 3 were rejected in all Fayette County precincts.

Issue No. 4 was defeated 610-1,252. This was a proposal to delete from the Constitution authority for the governor to appoint an Ohio Supreme Court commission. One precinct, A-4, passed the proposal 23-13, and precinct 2-A registered a tie vote.

Issue No. 5, allowing the General Asembly to change as well as accept or reject Ohio Supreme Court rules and procedures for all courts, was turned down 726-1,147. This proposal was passed in three precints and tied in one.

THE PROPOSAL to permit municipal court judges to receive in-term pay increases, Issue No. 5-A, was rejected in the county 777-1,155. Six precincts approved the measure, and a tie vote was recorded in one precinct.

Seven of the 44 precincts gave approval to Issue No. 6, the proposal to change the General Assembly's procedures and require annual sessions. A tie vote was registered in the Wayne-West precinct.

The first precinct to report totals was 1-F at 7:03 p.m. The final precinct to report at the Board of Elections office was 4-C at 8:54 p.m. The vote tally was completed at 9:12 p.m.

Precinct 3-A had the most voters with 112. The least number of voters were in Octa precinct with 12, an average of one per hour during the polling period.

Kissinger ends talks

MOSCOW (AP) — Henry Kissinger said today his talks with Soviet leaders had been "very cordial," but there would have to be more exchanges before the date of Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev's visit to the United States is announced.

President Nixon's chief adviser on foreign policy told newsmen as he left for London, "We had very cordial talks. We covered all the subjects we came to discuss.... The talks were very satisfactory."

Asked about the Brezhnev visit, which has been expected in late June, Kissinger said, "We have to have some more exchanges before we announce the date."

Kissinger spent most of his six-day visit in talks with Brezhnev and other officials in a hideaway at Zavidovo, 60 miles north of Moscow.

CIA to explain role in scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is sending top present and former officials to Capitol Hill to explain why disguises and spy cameras were supplied to White House aides bent on burglary.

The testimony is to be given in secret before senior senators and it comes after these disclosures:

—The CIA told the Justice Department as early as October that it had given logistical support to two White House operatives who allegedly masterminded a 1971 Los Angeles burglary in search of the psychiatric records of Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

—CIA's involvement was stopped abruptly after warnings the agency is barred by law from conducting "domestic clandestine operations."

The extent and legality of that involvement are now being investigated by three congressional committees.

And the CIA's former deputy director, Gen. Robert Cushman, who now commands the Marine Corps, is returning home from the Netherlands to explain his role.

Cushman's involvement was confirmed Tuesday by CIA Director James R. Schlesinger. He was reported by a congressman to have said CIA aid was given to White House aides E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy for five weeks in 1971 under Cushman's authority.

Schlesinger, the leadoff witness in hearings today before a CIA appropriations subcommittee, told Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., that the CIA reported its actions to the Justice Department in October 1972.

Nedzi, chairman of a House subcommittee which oversees the CIA, said it wasn't made clear if the report included the connection with the case of Ellsberg who is now on trial for copying the Pentagon papers and giving them to newspapers.

Liddy and Hunt were later arrested, tried and convicted in the burglary and bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate.

Solons offer Watergate immunity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators are said to be offering limited immunity from prosecution to obtain sworn and public testimony from as many as eight persons linked to the Watergate case.

The disclosure, from sources close to the Senate's Watergate committee, came Tuesday as the panel announced it will open long-awaited public hearings next week.

The committee said it may grant partial immunity to the man who has sought it the hardest—ousted White House counsel John Dean III.

In addition to Dean, the committee reportedly is considering extending immunity to the four Miami men arrested in the Watergate June 17, and also to Jeb Stuart Magruder, a former Nixon campaign official, and to convicted Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

Dean has been quoted as saying he has information linking President Nixon to a cover-up of the bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate.

The Senate sources said the only opposition to considering immunity for Dean came from the panel's ranking Republican, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn.

Baker voiced no such opposition to newsmen later.

As the committee prepared to "go public," other figures in the case were reported near indictment or under pressure to resign government jobs.

The New York Daily News, quoting "an unimpeachable source," reported the Watergate grand jury now believes enough evidence is in hand to indict former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Mitchell called the report "irresponsible" and asserted he is guiltless of illegal involvement.

Meanwhile, former White House aide Egil Krogh was reported under intense pressure to resign as undersecretary of transportation because of his admitted role in the burglary of the Los Angeles office of a psychiatrist treating Daniel Ellsberg.

The pressure was said to be coming from Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar.

Krogh, on indefinite leave from his $42,500-a-year job, headed a White House detachment seeking to plug security leaks. The leaks included one involving Ellsberg, now on trial for copying the top-secret Pentagon Papers and giving them to newspapers.

Krogh's affidavit, sent to the Ellsberg trial judge in Los Angeles, named convicted Watergate conspirators Hunt and Liddy as the men who actually planned the burglary.

His account led to the release of a separate statement by Hunt who claimed he got technical help—including disguises and concealed cameras—from the Central Intelligence Agency.

CIA documents made available at the Ellsberg trial on Tuesday said the aid to Hunt was authorized by Marine Gen. Robert Cushman when he was deputy director of the agency.

Cushman has been ordered to return from a trip to the Netherlands and is scheduled Thursday to give an explanation to senior senators assigned to oversee CIA operations.

In other Watergate developments:

—The State Department confirmed Hunt was given access in September 1971 to State Department cables dealing with Vietnam and copied 240 of them. A department spokesman said permission for Hunt to read the file was given at the request of David Young, then a White House foreign policy adviser.

Hunt's affidavit released to the Ellsberg trial stated he doctored official cables to implicate falsely the Kennedy administration in the 1963 murders of South Vietnamese leaders.

—Federal District Judge Matt Byrne said he will rule Thursday on whether to dismiss charges against Ellsberg and co-defendant Anthony Russo whose lawyers contend the White House and Watergate entanglement has tainted evidence against them.

Marine Gen. Vandegrift dies; hero of Guadalcanal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grandson of a Confederate soldier, Marine Corps Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift was weaned to a military tradition as a child on tales of the Civil War.

"My grandfather fought in the Confederate army and from the time I was a youngster listening to his stories of the war I wanted to be a military man," he once said.

Vandegrift died Tuesday at 86. He had been hospitalized with an illness at Bethesda Naval Hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md.

He had served as a commandant of the Marines and led the American invasion of Guadalcanal credited with upsetting for the first time the Japanese timetable for victory in World War II.

The Southern-born Vandegrift was an admirer of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee and liked to cite Lee's principle of being unwilling to sacrifice the life of a single one of his men.

He was a major general at the time of Guadalcanal and won the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Navy Cross for his leadership in the fight to take the island.

In 1944 Vandegrift was named commandant. He held the job until his retirement in 1948.

Vandegrift will be buried at Arlington National Cemetery, at a time to be announced.

He is survived by his widow, Kathryn; a stepson, William G. McDaniel of Winston-Salem, N.C.; eight grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Rights amendment dead in Ohio until 1975

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Backers of the ill-fated women's equal rights amendment don't plan to give up, but they concede it's a dead issue in Ohio, at least until 1975.

The Senate Financial Institutions, Insurance, and Elections Committee sounded the death knell for the controversial amendment Tuesday by a 5-4 vote. The vote came on a motion to reconsider the 6-3 vote by which the committee had rejected it earlier.

Rep. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, the main sponsor who guided the proposal to 56-40 approval in the House March 28, expressed disappointment over the action by the Senate panel, but insisted: "It's not dead, not yet."

He pointed out that the states have until 1979 to act on the amendment and added: "If I am re-elected, the first thing I will do in 1975 is introduce a new resolution."

The committee vote came as members of the Senate and House returned from weekend recess for floor sessions and passed two bills each.

The House added its approval to Senate bills moving the Division of Aviation from the Commerce Department to the Department of Transportation, and authorizing school districts to hold their organizational meetings anytime in the first 15 days of January instead of on the first Monday of January.

All but five House Republicans went along with the aviation bill after receiving assurances from Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, and others that Transportation Director J. Phillip Richley will retain Aviation Director Norman Crabtree.

Crabtree is a holdover from the Republican administration of former Gov. James Rhodes. The aviation director endorsed the bill which would consolidate all modes of transportation in the state in Richley's department. The bill went to the governor by a 77-5 vote.

Senators approved without dissent a pair of bills that would authorize a funeral home to retain the name of a retiring director-owner and raise clerks' fees for the selling of hunting, fishing, and trapping licenses from 35 cents to 50 cents.

Sen. William H. Mussey, R-14 Batavia, said the license fee bill would

Stock list on upside

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were mixed today, and analysts said the momentum of Tuesday's rally lost power in the absence of any positive news developments.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials which climbed nearly 3 points in the first hour, had fallen .83 to 955.75 by noon.

Advances held almost a 7-to-4 lead over declines in rather quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The broadbased NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks declined, however, and was down .03 to 58.87 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices were broadly higher, and the price-change index was up .01 to 23.69.

Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co. attributed the Dow's initial gain to a carry-over from Tuesday's advance, when the blue-chip indicator rose almost 6 points.

"The market has shaken off the effects of Watergate and Equity Funding, and institutional buying has stepped up," he said.

Other factors contributing to a market recovery were the recent optimistic statements about the economy made by members of the Nixon administration, according to brokers.

U.S. court orders EPA funds freed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overriding President Nixon's efforts to withhold appropriated funds, a federal court has ordered the Environmental Protection Agency to release all the money Congress has approved for fighting water pollution.

Nixon had announced his intention to forward to states and municipalities less than half the $11 billion Congress appropriated for fiscal years 1973 and 1974. The money is to be used for building sewage-treatment plants.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch, in a suit brought by the city of New York, said Tuesday that the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 "clearly indicates the intent of Congress to require the administrator (of the EPA) to allot at the appropriate times the full sums authorized."

Nixon had ordered the funds cut as part of his campaign to limit spending.

Gasch quoted a recent court decision: "'In our over-all pattern of government, the judicial branch has the function of requiring the executive branch to stay within the limits prescribed by the legislative branch.'"

He did not mention the case in which the decision was rendered. But the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis recently ordered the Department of Transportation to provide all highway-construction funds the federal government appropriated for the state of Missouri.

In another recent court test that went against the White House in its battle with Congress over who sets spending levels, a federal court in Washington, D.C., ordered a stop to Nixon's dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, which Nixon sought as another budget move.

Gasch cited both decisions.

Solon sentenced to workhouse

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — U. S. Rep. Thomas Ludlow Ashley, D-Ohio, has been fined $400 and sentenced to three days in the workhouse after pleading no contest to charges of having physical control of a car while intoxicated and resisting arrest.

The charges stemmed from an incident last month when Ashley was found slumped behind the wheel of his car on the Anthony Wayne Trail on Toledo near South Side.

Navy Reserve group to visit Guard station

Appoximately 50 Washington Senior High School NJROTC cadets and their instructors will accompany Company A, 166th Infantry, local Army National Guard Unit, to Camp Perry this weekend.

Commander Robert L. Self (USN ret.), and First Sgt. Robert Goodson said the cadets will visit all the ranges and have the opportunity to fire certain weapons for familiarization. The cadets will also take a bus tour of the lake area and visit a nearby Coast Guard station.

They will leave Friday night on military buses.

The guard unit will fire M-16A1 rifles for qualification and familiarization at the lakefront ranges. They will also qualify on grenade launchers, .45 caliber pistols, and the M1A1C sniper rifle.

Quarterly military occupation tests will be given and a military drivers license examination station will be conducted, Sgt. Goodson said.

The guard unit and NJROTC brigade are scheduled to return Sunday afternoon.

Man, wife both dead in shooting

HUNTSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A man shot to death here early today after taking his estranged wife and baby hostage has been identified as Jack Maynard, 27, of Lima.

Logan County Sheriff's deputies found Maynard and his wife, Nancy, 18, dead of bullet wounds inside the woman's home.

Sheriff Dewees Skidmore said he did not know who fired the shots that killed the couple. He said sheriff's deputies fired only one bullet.

Maynard barricaded himself, wife and baby inside the home shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday.

At one point more than 40 law officers from Logan and nearby counties and villages surrounded the house. The sheriff's deputies shot out street lights and used tear gas in an attempt to flush the gunman.

The baby is reported in good condition at a local hospital.

Earlier, police said Maynard had abducted a woman and her two children in an auto but abandoned them before making his way to the house.

Maynard reportedly had threatened to commit suicide.

bring those charged sportsmen in line with other state fee schedules, including those for auto license plates which went from 35 to 50 cents several years ago.

Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, was the only senator to switch his position on the ERA amendment on the committee headed by Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati. Members had been under considerable pressure from legislative lieutenants of Gov. John Gilligan, who endorsed the proposal.

Jackson made the motion to reconsider, and was joined by the three senators who supported it on the initial roll call two weeks ago. Besides Aronoff, they were Sens. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, a sponsor, and Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria.

Millions for paintings

The subject at hand is a 1.4-million-dollar telephone call. The story begins with the auctioneer at Sotheby Parke-Bernet Galleries in New York City glancing at a painting and announcing, "Lot 8, the Cezanne tulips."

This was a still life by the famed French impressionist called "Vase de Tulipes." The opening bid for the work was $500,000. Bidding progressed quickly by $50,000 increments until it reached $1,300,000. Whereupon an assistant to the auctioneer took a telephone call and glanced at her boss, who after receiving only silent looks from the latest bidders announced: "At 1.4 million. Sold on the telephone."

This prompts feelings of admiration for cool behavior under pressure. Sale of the Cezanne, and of a Manet for an identical sum, and of 47 works all told for a total of $6,782,900, also prompts where-will-it-all-end speculation about price trends in the art world.

Over the past few years we have witnessed a succession of phenomenal sales. Paintings by old masters have fetched staggering prices. As the auction mentioned above indicates, the works of some 20th Century masters also are pushing into the million-dollar class.

Inevitably, the somewhat testy thought comes to mind that except in rare cases it is not the artists themselves who reap these great rewards. Most often their paintings become objects not only of enjoyment but also of investment and speculation long after the creators' deaths.

One should not be excessively bitter about this. There also is a tradition which moves some wealthy owners of works of genius to present them to museums and otherwise share this unique beauty with the public.

All the same, with a small group of 20th Century paintings going for nearly seven million at a brief auction, one wonders if the steep rise in art prices will ever level off.

An assured blood supply

The story of how University of Miami students have for a dozen years been "blood brothers" of young Timothy Strohbach is both heart-warming and depressing. The latter sentiment is prompted by the thought that this 15-year-old lad and others who share his plight should not have to rely on the generosity of individual blood donors.

The blood which hemophiliacs need to stay alive should be provided automatically as a function of a benevolent society.

This is not at all intended to demean the loving service performed for Timothy Strohbach by a succession of students. They have donated 2,400 pints of blood for his use. As one of the donors put it, "'Each year Timmy is inherited by a new wave of students." Certainly we do not urge allowing the heavy hand of bureaucracy to interfere with this happy arrangement.

But what of the Timothys who are not so fortunate as to have such a supportive band of "blood brothers"? One recalls the recent stories relating the struggles of a despairing family to assure the needed blood supply for a child.

That case illustrated the point we make. There are many hemophiliacs scattered about the country. Not all of them have the support, real or potential, of a nearby student population.

Yet each one is surely as entitled as any other to the chance of survival and a more or less normal life that only a constant supply of blood can assure.

Collectively, we should see to this.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, MAY 10

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

You can begin to take action now, can start making decisions in pending issues — but not until after noon.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You get a splendid idea for increasing your income. Act on it promptly. Otherwise, doubts as to its feasibility may creep in, and vacillation will get you nowhere.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Fine Mercury influences. A good day for expansion generally, acting on unusual ideas, launching new projects.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

An excellent day for considering a new business commitment, but keep future objectives in mind. Don't base decisions in the light of immediate gain.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Another day for ACTION! No matter how off-beat your ideas for advancement, don't let others discourage you.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Routine matters may not go as planned. A "lesser light" may offer much needed help. Don't underestimate his ability.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

An excellent day for making new contacts, putting unique ideas into action. On the personal side, there's possibility of a new romance.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Accept the fact that, temporarily, differences of opinion are inevitable. Thus, you'll watch your step and do nothing to increase tensions.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A good day for activating ideas regarding financial expansion. Opportunities for advancing, career-wise, also indicated.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Some confusion in a job situation. However, with a little "sweet talk" you can get associates to see things your way.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

An exciting, stimulating day! Act with confidence. Luck is with you in dealing with superiors.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Some ups-and-downs in financial matters. However, a stroke of luck in the late afternoon will compensate for an unexpected morning expense.

YOU BORN TODAY are a persistent and determined individual, extremely active and enthusiastic about life in general. Persons born under Taurus are tops in many fields, and their avocations are numerous. Your natural pace is too much for some, but you go plowing along tenaciously while others wonder at your stamina. Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Does our form of government have to condone unethical practices by public elected and appointed officials? Election and bribery scandals seem to be in vogue.

The governor with the state legislature are working to provide an ethics law with teeth in it to keep Ohio's state and local officials clean. Under the proposed law public elected, appointed and candidates shall disclose their source of income immediately before and during their terms in office.

Why should anyone be ashamed of their source of income?

The state needs some cleaning in its own right before it can expect public officials to be Simon pure. Take for instance the Motor Vehicle Tax Department which allows local registrars to play with motor vehicle license plates in selling certain personal numbers and letters to a selected few for almost any extra fees the traffic will bear, some enormous.

Ethics in government? Public trust in one hand with the other hand in a cookie jar?

As to the recent breaking of scandals we are in no doubt in need of ethics legislation.

Some public elected officials seem to be using public time in lobbying against ethic legislation. Why should salaried public officials be involved in setting up ethics standards for their own positions? Seems to be a matter for the legislative department and the nonofficial public to determine.

Should county commissioners, township trustees and township clerks be exempted from such legislation?

Questionable public ethics should be everyones concern. Write or call your governor and state legislators in supporting the ethics measure.

"I WONDER HOW RALPH NADER FEELS ABOUT ALL THIS?"

Hal Boyle . .

Have a helping of squid . . .

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Editor's Note: Hal Boyle is ill.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The recent meat boycott didn't make much difference at our house. We haven't been heavy beef eaters since 50-cent steaks disappeared.

Ever since beef began really rising, it's been fish fry or chicken fry nearly every day with only moderate amounts of red meat.

And then there was the squid disaster.

Ran into a fellow a few weeks ago just as he was entering the friendly neighborhood pool hall.

He is an ex-Marine and has been all over the world and knows good food from bad.

"Come over here," he ordered in his best sergeant's manner.

"Want to show you somethine!"

He went to his car, obtained a package and opened it.

Inside were a lot of pretty, silver-colored fish, just a bit larger than a sardine.

"Delicious," said the sergeant. "Fry them in butter and they're out of this world. Cheap, too."

"What are they?"

"Smelts."

Dashed home to tell my wife about this great new find.

And she rushed out to the friendly neighborhood fish store.

Half an hour later, she dashed back and dumped three pound of frozen squid on the drainboard.

Squid!

That's what it said on the wrapping. Unfortunately, that was what was inside, too.

Orientals and the Japanese in particular consider squid a delicacy. It hasn't found much favor among the rest of the population of this world, however, as far as we know, except around the Mediterranean Sea.

Three pounds of frozen squid are not cheap. So there was nothing to do but salvage something out of the deal by cleaning and eating them.

You take out most of the inside and throw them away and you have a nice-appearing, flat piece of meat left. At least we think that is the part you eat.

After that, you just fry it like any fish. My wife refused and that duty fell to you know who.

Forgot to tell you that squid have a distinct odor and when they're heated in the frying pan the odor become increasingly distinct.

About halfway through the frying, one of the offsprings said, "I think I'll go out and get a hamburger instead."

The other announced, "I'm just getting out of here."

My wife said, "Believe I'll just have a glass of milk for dinner tonight."

Well, managed to choke down about half of a squid. Gave up and dumped the whole thing in the cat's dish.

Cats, as you well know, will eat any kind of fish.

But not this time. This feline took one sniff and bolted for the door. Couldn't find him until the next afternoon.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Help! My husband needs spelling lessons

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my husband's spelling. It's horrid. I swear I don't know how he ever got out of high school.

He is just beginning his career as a policeman, and his poor spelling has already started giving him trouble. He has to make out reports in writing and when he writes, "suspishun" and "rezizting" on a report, it raises a lot of eyebrows.

He talks well, but his spelling is outrageous. I told him to carry a small dictionary and to look up any word he isn't sure of. He says: "You have to know how to spell a word before you can find it in the dictionary so what's the use?"

Abby, do you know where an adult can learn how to spell from scratch? Even if it took a year it would be miracle enough for us. Thank you.

WORRIED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Call your board of education and ask them what is available in their adult education department. Evening classes, or special tutoring could be the answer but first your husband should take some tests to determine the kind of special help he needs.

DEAR ABBY: You've made references to May-December marriages, but you have never given any advice with regard to them. You should, and it should be one word. DON'T.

I have witnessed four, including my own, and all of them have been very unsatisfactory. Especially for the younger partner. Older husbands make poor fathers. Children make them nervous, and they are too tired to go anywhere with their young wives, and all too soon they are inadequate lovers.

A young woman is flattered to be pursued by a dashing, sophisticated "older" swain. But after they are married, he becomes a dull old man. When she is 22 and he is 36, the age difference doesn't show much, but when she is 35 and he is 49, things start to go downhill for her.

I wish someone would have wised me up. Until a woman has lived in such a marriage, she has no idea how many problems arise.

SHORT-CHANGED IN KANSAS

DEAR SHORT: I rarely give advice with regard to marriages and age because one's condition is far more important than his age. Some men of 65 are in much better shape than some men of 30. While youth is prized, it's no assurance of vim, vigor and virility.

DEAR ABBY: Today when so many marriage are going sour, may I tell you about one which was sweet for almost 63 years?

I married a wonderful girl in April 1910. She was 5 years my senior. We had five children who bore us 27 grandchildren. They in turn bore us 10 great-grandchildren all doing well.

My beloved died last December. I have her engagement and wedding rings and don't know what to do with them.

Would it be prudent to sell them and give the money to the orphans? Your reply would be appreciated.

A READER: TEMPLE, ARIZONA

DEAR READER: Someone in your family may place a high sentimental value on the rings your beloved wore for so many years. Don't sell them before letting your family know you want to dispose of them. If more than one wants them, let them draw lots. And lots of luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHITE VERSUS PURPLE IN PANAMA CITY: Neither! To be appropriately attired for a divorce hearing, I'd vote for BLACK. In a sense, one is burying a dead relationship.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

'Horizons for women' offered to homemakers

Food, fashion, beauty, home decoration, consumer protection, to work or not-to-work outside the home, keeping on an even keel!

You'll find them all - and then some - in the two-day short-short-short course "Horizons for Women," sponsored by the Continuing Education Department of Ohio Dominican College and the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) of the Ohio State University, May 16 and 17.

Approximately 300 women from Central and Southern Ohio are expected to attend the sessions scheduled for the Ohio Dominican College campus, 1216 Sunbury Rd., Columbus.

Mrs. Ezelle Hawkins, assistant state leader, Home Economics, the Cooperative Extension Service of Ohio State, 1787 Neil Ave., Columbus, with whom reservations should be made, said today: "The joint program provides participants the opportunity to register for a two-hour course of her choice each day. Ten such courses are listed from which she may choose. In addition scheduling permits her attendance at one of five mini-lessons, which will last approximately 45 minutes.

Cooperative Extension Service representatives or faculty of Ohio Dominican will be instructors for both the longer and the abbreviated discussion periods.

Course subjects, taught by CES representatives include: psychology of color in home decoration - Dorothy Teater; foods (health and organic, additives and labeling) - Alma Saddam; your worth (to work inside vs. outside the home) - Geraldine Olsen; update: consumer protection - Norleen Ackerman: psychological and sociological aspects of clothing design, lines and colors - Norma Deyo; and adjustment to the children's first home away from home - Alice Tommas.

Taught by Ohio Dominican instructors or other leaders in their field will be: housing for the elderly - Martha Recchie, home economics department; judging an art piece--Juris Kakis, art department; and the changing roles of women - (Protestant view) Alice Skeel, home economics department, (Catholic view) Sister Joan Franks, O. P., philosophy department, and (Jewish view) Jean Eisenman, ODC alumna; and handling life's crises - Dr. Ann S. Bardwell, School of Home Economics of Ohio State.

Open session at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday (May 16) will focus on "Perspectives for Women," to be discussed by Ohio Dominican faculty members. Topics will include: the Biological Aspects of Womanhood - Grace Beery, science department; Images of Women in Literature - Sr. Louise Wilxman, English department; Historical Aspects of Feminism - Sister Loretta Forquer, history department.

Afternoon general session Thursday (May 17) will have as its topic: "It Could Happen to You" and will relate information on personal safety for women of all ages. Jeanne Bray, Policewoman of the City of Columbus will deliver the lecture and present the film.

Thursday morning and afternoon mini-sessions will provide opportunity for each participant to hear one discussion on make-up and beauty, furniture uplift, fashion, supermarket know-how and sewing. CES representatives Eleanor Kersh, Mary Kase, Jean McCleaster, Jonelle Long, and Olive Woodyard will instruct the short courses.

Mrs. Hawkins encouraged: "Take two days out to learn about yourself and women in general. Talk your neighbors into coming too. Form a car pool."

Full registration, covering program and lunch two days, is $10; partial registration - a single day's attendance for lunch and program is $7.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny W. Sharrett have returned from their wedding trip which took them to places of interest in Florida.

Miss Mary Ellen Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jenkins, Rt. 2, became the bride of Danny Wilson Sharrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Lindy) Sharrett, of Jeffersonville, April 27.

The Rev. Earl Russell performed the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in the Sugar Grove Methodist Church before arrangements of pink and lavender carnations and candelabra entwined with greenery and bows. Mrs. Mary Black, organist, presented "Time for Us" and "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride wore a white empire satin bridal gown trimmed in white lace and self-covered buttons. Her lace veil was waist-length and her headpiece was caught to a cluster of flowers. The gown and veil were made by Mrs. Albert Bryant. She carried an arrangement of white daisies and white roses in a cross design.

Miss Belinda Ramey was the bridesmaid, and wore a gown of white bodice with rainbow colored skirt in shades of lavender and pink. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink, white and blue carnations with yellow daisies and pink sweetheart roses with pink ribbon.

Little Tami Jenkins, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a long lavender dress with long white smock and matching headpiece, and carried a basket of white, pink and yellow daisies.

Nick Foody, of Jamestown, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Mike Young and Bob Coe, both of Washington C.H.

The bride's mother greeted guests in a blue, green and yellow jersey frock with blue knit vest and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue knit dress with white chiffon sleeves and white accessories. Both wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

Hostesses for the reception in the social room of the church were Mrs. Marsha Edgington, Mrs. Debbie Reed, Mrs. Sharon Haines and Mrs. Clara Pollard.

The couple is residing at 26½ State St. in Jeffersonville. The new Mrs. Sharrett, a 1972 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is employed at the First National Bank. Her husband, a 1970 MTHS graduate, is employed by the Village of Jeffersonville.

Leg of lamb dinner enjoyed by gourmet group

The Welcom Wagon gourmet group met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Spilker, Lakewood Hills, for a leg of lamb dinner. Lamb is a traditional Easter menu in the United States, but more of an every day meal in India and Greece, it was explained.

The hostess chose recipes of food to accent the meat such as eggplant, mint jellies, sweet potatoes combined with dried fruits and basted with wine. These recipes were prepared by each of the guests. The husbands all enjoyed the dinner.

The gourmet group is one of the many activities couples may enjoy through the Welcome Wagon Club. Members must be a new resident of Fayette County and be called on by one of the WW hostesses within six months, who invites them to join the club.

Once a member, new comers may participate in the activities.

Members present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. William Earley, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mattson, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Rich.

The next gettogether will be in July.

Add minced chives to eggs that are going to be scrambled: then just before the eggs are ready, fold in cottage cheese. Delicious for a weekend brunch.

Farm statements not necessarily true

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Test yourself. There's a good chance that you believe one or more of the following statements:

—We don't have any more family farmers in this country. Oh, a few, of course, but the big corporations have taken over and they've pretty much run the little fellow out of business.

The facts dispute this widely held notion. Data from the 1969 census aren't available yet, but those who follow the trends, such as the Conference Board, believe that 95 per cent of farms are still family-operated.

That was the percentage found in other studies made in 1949, 1959 and 1964, even though there was a sharp decrease in the number of farms — from 6,350,000 in 1940 to 2,876,000 in 1970.

There are several reasons why the belief has taken hold. One is that the average farm size has grown from 175 acres to about 390 acres in the past 30 years or so. Another is that the 5 per cent nonfamily farms account for a big share of production — 35 per cent in 1964.

The fact is that many of the large corporations that did go into farming found it not nearly as profitable as they had expected, and some of them now believe that there may be size limitations on the efficient farm.

What is a family farm? According to the Agriculture Department it is "an agricultural business in which the operator is a risk-taking manager, who, with his family, does more than half of the farm work."

—The reason for our high food prices is the middleman. He's got a great big appetite for money, and he's making all of us pay through the nose.

The explanation isn't that simple. There's no denying that in recent years the foods that leave the farmer's lands go through many processes that add to delivery cost. But there's little evidence of any profiteering.

First National City Bank notes that civilian spending for farm foods in 1971 totaled $111.1 billion, an increase of $44.2 billion over 1960. Of this increase, farmers received only $13.5 billion, the middleman $30.7 billion.

However, little of this increase seems to be reflected in middleman profits. It seems there are more and more middlemen to prepare and distribute foods that once were delivered raw. And the middleman's expenses also have risen.

In summary: True, the transporting, processing and distribution of foods is eating up a lot more of the food dollar. But rather than blaming any one group, perhaps you should accuse our changing customs and appetites.

—By any measure, General Motors and American Telephone & Telegraph are the largest companies in the United States, in fact, the largest in the entire world. It's been that way for years.

Times change and that statement isn't true today. GM might be the largest manufacturer and have the greatest profits. And AT&T might have the greatest assets and the largest number of shareholders, but...

International Business Machines has the greatest market value of any company in the world, with investors giving it a price of $47.8 billion, That's the figure you'll arrive at by multiplying price per share by shares outstanding.

That price is almost double the combined market value of AT&T and GM. AT&T is in second place, with a value of $28.79 billion. GM is in fifth, with market value of $20.42 billion.

In between, in a compilation by Standard & Poor's, are Eastman Kodak, at $21.81 billion and Exxon, at $21.53 billion.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Hemmer, 29, is barely old enough to recall the glory days of radio when "The Lone Ranger" rode the aural range and "The Green Hornet" buzzed about on behalf of law and order.

But Hemmer, program director of radio station WDBQ-AM in Dubuque, Iowa, recently brought back the fun of the old days by broadcasting five shows written and submitted by listeners.

The authors were an artist at a local advertising agency, two high school teachers, a deputy sheriff and a 21-year-old female factory worker.

Hemmer got the scripts by unwittingly repeating radio history. The repeating occurred last January when WDBQ ran a "Radio Theater" contest inviting listeners to submit original half-hour scripts.

It's exactly the way many prominent writers today first were heard nationally, thanks to "Dr. Christian," a radio series broadcast several decades ago. It also asked listeners to submit original scripts.

One of those budding authors, Earl Hemner Jr., earned $500 for a script he sent in. He's better-known and earns considerably more today as creator of "The Waltons" series on CBS-TV.

Hemner, who says he never heard of the "Dr. Christian" series, laughed when asked how he came upon the idea of WDBQ's script search.

"I couldn't tell you," he said. "I've always been fascinated with old-time radio. A couple of years ago I thought, 'gee, wouldn't it be fun if we could do something like this.' And we finally did it."

He said the "Radio Theater" contest brought a total of 52 original scripts from the listening audience. He and his staff read them all, selected five for broadcast and went to work, using the station's disc jockeys and local residents as actors in the shows.

"There were no rewrites," he said. "We did them exactly the way they were written. Of course, we added sound effects and music."

The shows, broadcast during the last week in March, ranged from "Bill Bugoni, Private Eye" — a spoof of the old "Sam Spade" series" — to "The Second Chance," a show about a man whom the fates allow to return to his past.

The final show, "Red Lights and Sirens," was written by the deputy sheriff.

While the series was broadcast, listeners were invited to vote by mail on their favorite show. The authors got cash prizes ranging from $10 to the $100 award given the author of "Second Chance," which received the largest share of the 800 votes cast.

Hemmer, whose station has only 1,000 watts and limited funds for uuch efforts, says he's going to have another "Radio Theater" week in September and start calling for authors in mid-July.

He says he's still amazed by the response to the first contest.

"It was an absolute 100 per cent success and a lot of fun, to boot."

Truman statue fund drive set

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Students at Truman High School have begun a drive to raise $100,000 to $150,000 for a life-size statue of the school's namesake, former President Harry S. Truman.

Randy Davidson, president of the school's Student Council, announced the start of the drive today, the 89th anniversary of Truman's birth. He then made a contribution of $500 on the part of the students.

He said high school students throughout the nation would push the drive throughout the next school term.

TOPS plans 'walk-a-thon'

Members of the OH TOPS chapter 669 have planned a "walk-a-thon" beginning at 1 p.m. May 20 to Bloomingburg. Members who desire to participate in this event are to meet at Eastside School. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 29.

Mrs. Beryl Smith, leader, announced Mrs. John Martindale, as "best loser" of the week, and Cathy Jenkins as the teen princess. Miss Patty Riley was welcomed as a new member. Winners of the old-fashioned spelling bee were Mrs. Chester Estep, Mrs. Herbert Jones and Mrs. Lowell Hollis.

Mrs. Dale Dunn stressed walking for health. Footpower is the easiest way to lose weight and the least expensive, she said.

Rotary park-pool project reviewed

A review of one of the Rotary Club's two major projects — Washington Park and its swimming pool and the Little League for elementary school boys — was given by Eli Craig at the club's luncheon Tuesday in the Country Club.

Craig, a Rotarian, prefaced his informal sortie into history, by explaining that he felt a rundown of the development of the park and swimming pool was not amiss, because a number of new members have come into the club since the project was begun and since it was last reviewed at a club meeting.

He reminded that the Rotary Club started the swimming pool project in 1946, 27 years ago, but it was not until June 25, 1950, that the pool finally was opened.

HE RECALLED that, with a nest egg of $5,000 from the old YMCA, and funds raised by public subscriptions, five acres of land with a couple of gravel pits between Oakland Avenue and the DT&I and B&O railroads, was purchased from G.W. Perry during World War II by the Washington Park Association. With that start, an estimate of $40,000 for construction of the pool was given. Led by three Rotarians, Glenn Woodmansee, Carroll Halliday and L.M. Hayes, along with Trent Sickles, Washington Hotel operator, the club started out to raise the money. Meanwhile, however, postwar inflation had boosted the cost estimate to $75,000. The money eventually was raised, and construction was started in the fall of 1949.

Ever since the park and swimming pool were in the preliminary talk stage, the Rotary Club has been the guiding hand as the Washington Park Association. Milbourne Flee is chairman of the board, which includes Billie Wilson, Richard E. Whiteside, William E. Williams, Ned Kinzer, L.M. Hayes and Craig. President Fred L. Domenico is an ex-officio member.

CRAIG ATTRIBUTED the success of the park and swimming pool operations to two factors: (1) the family membership which assures money at the start of each season and (2) the program of swimming instruction. Craig estimated the value of the present park and pool property at $150,000 to $175,000. He also disclosed that the association has a reserve for addition (pool enlarged once) improvements, but he did not go into detail.

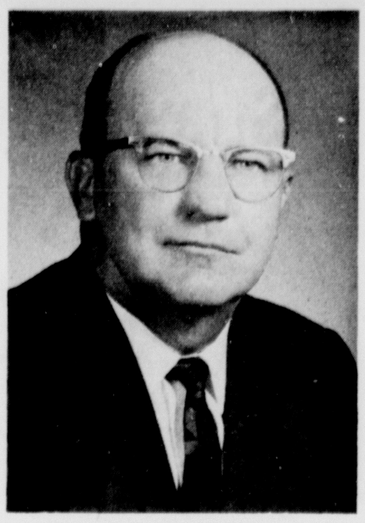

Craig pointed out that although the park and pool are a continuing project of the Rotary Club, few Rotarians, other than those on the board, are familiar with the operations.

THE CLUB'S other project, the Little League, also comes into the limelight at this time of year when virtually every Rotarian pitches in to conduct the annual fish fry to raise money to help meet Little League expenses. The fish fry will be held Friday at the Mahan Building on the Fairground. The event usually produces between $1,800 and $2,000 for the Little League. Mike Helfrich, the general chairman, reminded Rotarians to be at their assigned posts Friday night.

President Domenico, on behalf of the club, presented an honorary membership to Lloyd Rhoad, of Bloomville, the father of Rotarian C. Elton Rhoad and grandfather of John Rhoad. The elder Rhoad frequently has been a guest at Rotary meetings.

Charles Drake, of MTHS, was the only student guest and Jim Dunn, executive vice president of the Area Chamber of Commerce, was the guest of Domenico.

Visiting Rotarians included a delegation of six, President Bob McNeely, Dave Kohli, Art Dick, Gene Garrison, Ralph Ritts and Larry Hughes, from Mount Sterling; James Dickey, of Wilmington; Howard Bobo, of Cincinnati, and Ed Rogers, of London.

DARBYSHIRE NAMED — J. Meredith Darbyshire, Wilmington realtor, has been appointed by Gov. John J. Gilligan to serve a five-year term as a member of Ohio Recreation and Resources Commission. The 56-year-old Sabina native, who is a former member of the Ohio Wildlife Council, replaces John J. Dunlap, whose term expired.

Ohio Perspective

Rural zoning gains across state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For 25 years, long before ecology became a popular word, rural Ohioans have been making quiet and important decisions about land use, an Ohio State University rural sociologist says.

They call its rural zoning. It is already in effect in more than half of Ohio's 1,300 townships in 66 of the state's 88 counties.

"Rural zoning is one of the methods that persons concerned with land use and quality of the environment will be looking at and considering," said Sociologist James B. Mitchell of the Extension Service.

Most people know about city zoning, which regulates what types of building and what urban areas are used for. Rural zoning in a county or a township works much like that.

Residents of the rural area, or their representatives, must approve in advance any plans to use land differently than it has been used in the past.

Last year 102 Ohio townships in 35 counties argued over rural zoning. Although the issue was approved in only 35, Mitchell was not dismayed.

Rural zoning, the Ohio State sociologist contended, is "a valuable tool" in controlling land use and it deserves consideration. Still, he said a poorly administered zoning law could be detrimental.

In any case, interest in rural zoning appears to be growing, not decreasing.

Most of the rural zoning laws voted into effect in Ohio have come along a wide belt dissecting the state from southwest to northeast—roughly following the general thrust of Ohio population. The concept has been least popular in the sparsely settled southeastern corner of Ohio. "Generally, the less dense the population, the less awareness people have that there's a need for this type of control over land use," said Mitchell.

One land use problem the southeast does have is strip mining, but Mitchell doesn't think application of rural zoning has ever been tested in this area.

"I'm not sure it applies," he said. "Both strip mining and lumbering as extractive pursuits might fall into the same class as agriculture."

Rural zoning has been a quiet political issue. Although there has been organized opposition when the issue appeared on the ballot, the arguments center around the right of individual choice and freedom from governmental interference.

Chillicothe school bond issue approved

CHILLICOTHE — Four tax levies and a school bond issue were approved Tuesday by Ross County voters, including a $4.7 million bond issue for construction and remodeling of school buildings in the Chillicothe School District.

The bond issue was passed 2,553-2,476, and a 7-mill additional levy for school operating expenses was approved 2,756-2,365.

Tabulation of votes on a one-half mill operating levy for the board of health was not complete, but the issue apparently passed.

A 10.7 mill renewal levy for the Scioto Valley School District was approved, 357-265, and a seven-tenths mill levy in Frankfort Township was adopted, 87-34.

In Republican races for Chillicothe City Council nominations, Charles A. Hurles defeated incumbent Nancy King, 150-131. Miss King, at age 20, is the youngest member of the Council.

First Ward incumbent John L. Stimmer was defeated by Edward R. Kunzelman, 537-269. Receiving the nomination for council-at-large positions were James M. Caldwell, Robert M. Irwin and David L. Dixon.

Pickaway County

CIRCLEVILLE — Two township tax levies for fire and emergency protection were approved in Pickaway County at Tuesday's election.

The 1½ milll levy in Walnut Township was passed 179-68, and a one-half mill levy in Madison Township was approved 115-26.

Pickaway County voters defeated a proposed 4 mill tax levy for the Logan Elm School District by a vote of 428-591. The totals do not include four precincts in Hocking County which also are in the school district.

In Circleville City Council races, Robert G. Ogden defeated Terry D. Agin for the Republican nomination for second ward councilman, and John W. Jenkins defeated Samuel F. Cook for the Democratic nomination in the second ward.

Clinton County

WILMINGTON — Residents of Clinton County voted against a proposed $1.98 million bond issue for the building of a new high school in the East Clinton Local School District. The vote was 640 For - 511 Against.

Also voted down were proposed zoning changes in Washington and Vernon townships.

Highland County

HILLSBORO — A $1,065,000 bond issue for a vocational school in a school district which includes Brown County and a small segment of southern Highland County was approved by a vote of 1,831 to 1,254. A 2-5-mill operating levy for the school also was approved by a 1,764 to 1,256 vote in Tuesday's primary election.

A $5,755,000 bond issue proposal to build two new schools in the Adams County district which includes a small portion of southeastern Highland County was turned down 2,823 to 1,804.

Highland Countians also voted against all six state issues.

Madison County

LONDON — Only issue No. 1 to permit state lotteries was approved by Madison County voters Tuesday. A total 2,996 votes were cast in the unusually light turnout.

In London, John Ewart, a write-in candidate, was elected president of Council over Stanley McVey, 394 to 113. There were four candidates for three councilman-at-large seats, which went to John Dixon (540) Vernon Smith (455) and Helen Roddy (435). The unsuccessful candidate, Charles Roark, received 384 votes.

Greene County

XENIA — Greene County voters, by better than 2 to 1, approved a 4.2 mill renewal levy for Sugar Creek School District. Balloting on the issue was 698 For and 275 Against. The measure is a continuing levy for operating expenses.

Old Fashioned Days planning under way

Plans of the annual Old Fashioned Bargain Days were discussed at a regular meeting of the Washington C. H. Downtown Business Association Wednesday morning in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

John Toby, of the Montgomery Wards store, who was named chairman of this year's Old Fashioned Bargain Days, pointed out that the event will be held Aug. 1-4. Toby said busness places will be contacted prior to the June 13 meeting of the Downtown Business Association in order to prepare for the four-day affairs.

The agenda also included discussion on a recent shoppers survey conducted by the Consumer Education class at Washington Senior High School. The group decided to compare the results of the recent survey with a similar one conducted four years ago to find any noticeable differences.

Mrs. Martha Reiff, chairman of the Downtown Beautification Committee, reported on the placing of tree boxes in the downtown area. It is hoped the committee will be able to place 24 of the trees in the downtown area, Mrs. Reiff said.

The meeting was conducted by Vice President Ray Downing.

Thot for the day:
When I was but a little girl, I heard my Mother's name,
And then I heard them speak of God, and that they were the same.
Now I have grown to womahood, and I found the two-apart,
But I feel I was not too wrong, for God was in her heart.

Cincy whacks Phillies, 7-1

Billingham registers fifth mound triumph

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Last year everybody was asking Jack Billingham how come he always got off to such a bad start. The question has changed. Now they're asking big Jack how come he's off to such a good start.

The 30-year-old Cincinnati righthander beat the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night 7-1 for his fifth victory against one loss. He pitched a strong nine-hitter, striking out seven and walking only one.

Last year at this time, Billingham was 0-5, nursing a tender shoulder and wondering if he'd ever win again.

Billingham attributes his quick getaway to runs.

"Everytime I go out there I get six or seven runs," he said. "Anyway, I think that bad start is a bum rap. Last season was the first time I really got off bad, and I wasn't pitching bad. I'm not making excuses, but I was in a lot of close games, those late inning 1-1 things. I wasn't getting six or seven runs."

The 6-foot-4 pitcher admitted, however, that he feels he's a better pitcher now than he was a year ago at the beginning of the season, He's more consistent.

"The World Series gave me confidence," said Billingham, who was the star of the series for the losing Reds. He pitched 13 2-3 innings, allowed six hits, no earned runs, won the third game, saved the fifth, and kept the Reds alive in the seventh until lifted for a pinchhitter in the fifth inning.

"The World Series is the top of the world for a ballplayer. It's a player's dream, and I was fortunate enough to have a good series," Billingham said.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson agreed with his pitcher, that the World Series had helped build Billingham's confidence. "He proved to himself that he had enough stuff to go out and win 20 games," Anderson declared. "His concentration is much better. He should be 6-0."Anderson said Billingham was going to have a good year, because he wants to win 20 games.

That's the difference, wanting to win 20," added Anderson. "A lot of pitchers wish to win 20, but don't want to make the sacrifices. Jack does."

Billingham didn't have an easy time despite the 7-1 score. The Phillies, behind rookie Dick Ruthven, were in the game until the eighth when Pete Rose singled home one run and Johnny Bench slammed a three-run homer.

The game turned in the fifth when the Reds led only 1-0. They had runners at second and third with two outs and Rose at bat. When Phillies' manager Danny Ozark decided to pitch to Rose with first base open, he opened the door for the second guessers. Rose singled home two runs.

Good baseball dictated walking the switch-hitting Rose so the righthanded Ruthven could work on the right-swinging Dave Concepcion. The Phillies disdained the walk, even when the count reached three balls, one strike.

Ozark defended his strategy, saying Concepcion (a lifetime .222 hitter) was more dangerous now than Rose (lifetime .309).

"Concepcion is hitting about .360 (actually .341) for one thing," said the Phillies Manager. "Pete got a couple of hits tonight (Tuesday) but he really hasn't been wearing anybody out. We were trying to work around him. The 3-2 pitch was supposed to be down, but he (Ruthven) got it up."

Ruthven said if he had to do it over again he would want to walk Rose.

"I tried to walk him on the 32 pitch," the pitcher said. "I tried to bounce it in the dirt, but got it up in his eyes. It was a stupid pitch. I couldn't have hung it to a worse guy," he said of the curve ball Rose ripped for the two-run single.

The Phillies cut the Reds lead to 3-1 in the seventh inning on three consecutive singles, the last by Denny Doyle. Ruthven left for a pinchhitter in the inning, and reliever Jim Lonborg gave up the four runs in the eighth. The loss was the first in the major leagues for Ruthven, whose victory was also over Cincinnati.

MT's explosion nets seventh win of year

Miami Trace's Panthers, erupting for eight runs in the fifth inning, bopped Springfield Northeastern 10-2 in a non-league game Tuesday night at the Panther diamond.

Head coach Dave Pellior's Panthers received solid 10-hit offensive fireworks in which a total of four players had two hits apiece in registering their seventh win 11 outings this spring.

Junior Randy Reiber, who picked up the mound victory for Miami Trace, led the offensive assault with a pair of triples and two runs-batted-in. Tony Grooms and Jeff Spears both had a single and a double apiece and Jay Mossbarger cracked a pair of singles.

REIBER WENT the distance for Miami Trace in notching his second win of the season. He scattered six hits, fanned nine and issued one free ticket.

The junior hurler ignited Miami Trace's eight-run explosion as he belted both of his triples in the fifth inning. Spears also had two hits in the inning, one a double whhich plated Reiber for the final run.

A two-run single by Dave Arnold handed Miami Trace a comfortable 2-0 lead in the opening inning, but Northeastern bounced back with a pair of runs in the third. Miami Trace blew the gamewide open with the six-hit, eight-run assault in the fifth frame.

Knicks stop L.A. Lakers

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was a hope shot," explained New York Knick forward Dave DeBusschere.

"I was looking for the free throws—it was just luck that the ball went in."

A horde of reporters were gathered in the New York trainer's room where the 6-foot-6 DeBusschere, an ice pack on his sore right knee, was describing the key play in the Knicks' 103-98 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden.

The Lakers had cut a 21-point New York lead down to two, 94-92, with one minute to go. Los Angeles was surging, having scored eight points in a row. The Knicks were disorganized. Walt Frazier had fouled out, and none of the Knicks was shooting well.

Knick forward Bill Bradley tried a jump shot from the right side. It missed, bounding high off the rim. The two centers, Willis Reed of New York and massive Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles, went for the rebound—with DeBusschere lurking alongside.

As a result, New York took a 3-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's championship playoffs. The Knicks can wrap up the best-of-7 series with a victory in Los Angeles Thursday night.

BRL tryouts set tonight

Tryouts will be held tonight for boys wishing to participate on one of the four Washington C.H. teams in the Fayette County Babe Ruth League.

John Skinner, the new Babe Ruth commissioner, said the tryouts will be held at 5 p.m. Tryouts are also scheduled on Thursday.

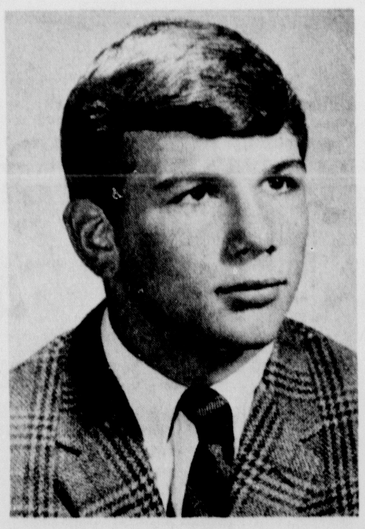

Willis alternate captain on Murray State grid team

Dale Willis, a former Washington C.H. Blue Lion football star, has been named alternate captain of the Murray State (Ky.) University football team for the 1973 campaign.

Willis, a 6-foot-2 230-pound offensive tackle who was sidelined this season with a fractured ankle, will be a senior at Murray State University next autumn. He has earned three varsity letters.

Bruce Ferris, of Sikeston, Mo., is the Murray State team captain, and Charles Carpenter, of Cincinnati, is another alternate captain.

The 1969 graduate of Washington Senior High School was an offensive and defensive tackle with Washington C.H.'s South Central Ohio League championship edition during the 1968 season. He was an All-SCOL selection two years and landed a berth on the Class AA All-Central District honorable mention list his senior year.

Panther thinclads top two SCOL rivals in triangular

Miami Trace's track team, turning in its finest team effort of the spring campaign, topped South Central Ohio League rivals Wilmington and Greenfield in a triangular meet Tuesday night on the Panther cinderpaths.

Head coach Chuck Wallace's Panther spikers placed first or second in 14 of the 15 events to stack up 69 points, while Wilmington, which had six first-place finishes, had 60 points. Greenfield finished with 31 points.

SENIOR GARDNER Cobb paced Miami Trace's win as he scored victories in the 220 and 440-yard dashes, placed third in the discus and anchored the Panthers' second place mile relay team.

Junior Dave Steinhauser continued to improve in the high jump as he posted a win, leaping 5 feet, 10 inches.

A Miami Trace track record was shattered during Tuesday's competition. Tim Shumaker hurled the shot put 58 feet, 6½ inches, snapping the record he set at Miami Trace last spring. Miami Trace sophomore Ron Warnock set a personal high in the shot with a heave of 51 feet, 3½ inches, placing second in that event.

Pfeifer named director of regional grid board

Maurice Pfeifer, veteran head football coach at Washington C.H., was named a regional director of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association in recent balloting.

Pfeifer, who has been the Blue Lion taskmaster for the past eight seasons and is dean of South Central Ohio League football coaches, will serve a two-year term as director of Region 14, which is the largest region in Ohio in area, but the smallest in population.

THERE ARE 16 regions in Ohio and the directors from those regions, plus the officers of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association serve in an advisory capacity to the Ohio High School Athletic Association on football matters in the state.

The new state football playoffs and summer conditioning programs were made possible through the work of the regional boards. The board also selects coaches for the annual Ohio High School North-South all-star summer football game.

Pfeifer served as an assistant coach last summer in the North-South all-star game.

24 win top honor at MTHS

Twenty-four Miami Trace High School students, who have maintained scholastic excellence and shown evidence of character and leadership were inducted into the MTHS chapter of the National Honor Society at ceremonies Monday.

In the evening, they and the other NHS members and their parents were guests at the first annual National Honor Society Recognition Banquet sponsored by the four banks in the area in Grace United Methodist Church.

Inducted into the Honor Society were Marianne Arnold, Barbara Beal, Lora Brooks, John Bryant, Gary Cobb, Kim Fleming, Mary Ford, David Foster, Debbie Frazier, Julie Frost, Elaine Houseman, Scott Jenks, Kathy Knecht, Cindy Knisley, Deidre Lange, Barbara Marvin, Ginger Pendleton, David Persinger, Patty Persinger, Nancy Roark, Mary Jo Thornton, Kathy Wallace, Vicki Wickensimer and Sandra Zimmerman.

The Miami Trace NHS chapter has had a busy year, and the induction of new members and the banquet were climaxing high points. During the year, the chapter, under the guidance of Fred Doyle, the adviser, sponsored a college and career night for all SCOL high school students, tutored students who were having difficulties with their studies, prepared their own induction ceremony, sponsored Miami Trace Scholarship Week and raised more than $1,000 for scholarships through various money-making projects.

THE PURPOSE of the Honor Society, Principal Curtis E. Fleisher explained, is to create enthusiasm for scholarships, stimulate a desire to serve, promote leadership and encourage development of character. Membership is by election by the high school faculty.

The banks which sponsored the recognition banquet were represented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert English, of the First National Bank, of Washington C. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryan, of the First National Bank of New Holland; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Barton, of the Washington Savings Bank; and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wilson, of the Fayette County Bank.

Following the dinner, Doyle recognized the special guests and graduating members of the Honor Society. NHS President Bob Ford welcomed the new members and commented briefly on his experiences in the National Honor Society and what it has meant to him.

Two graduating members, Paula Alkire and John Bryan, were presented awards for outstanding service to the NHS and, at the conclusion of the after-dinner program, it was announced that Jill Fetters had been chosen by the graduating NHS members to receive the $225 scholarship. She plans to enroll in Otterbein College next fall.

HONOREES — The group above was inducted into the MTHS chapter of the National Honor Society and banqueted by banks of the area. Principal Curtis Fleisher is at left in front row.

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Two city council races will have Ohio University students as the Democratic candidates in the November general election.

Seven students sought nomination to council races in Tuesday's primary.

Michael J. McAlister beat three other students for party nomination in the First Ward. He will face Thomas Ruth, unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Gale D. Snoddy, a senior in sociology, ran third in a five-candidate Democratic slate for three at-large council seats and will be among candidates on the fall ballot.

Other Democrats winning places in the at-large races were Patricia Gyi, special assistant to Ohio University President Claude Sowle, and Jerry L. Adams, a university president.

Their Republican opponents for the at-large seats will be B. Tad Grover Jr., a bank president; Fred W. Weber II, an employe of the Athens Messenger, and Norman H. Dohn, a journlism professor at the university.

In other council nominations, Thomas H. Smith, a Democrat and university professor, defeated Bruce E. Mitchell, a student, for the nomination. Smith faces Republican Joe Johnson in the fall.

In the third Ward, Kenneth W. Collins, Republican incumbent, won nomination and will face Phyllis Katz, Democrat who was unopposed for the nomination.

In the Fourth Ward, Gregory W. Hill, Democrat and a university graduate now employed at the university television station, was nominated over student Mike Duffy. Hill faces Republican Charlie Laughlin in the fall election.

Defensive driving class set Thursday

The sixth Defensive Driving Course, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club, will be offered to the public free of charge at 7 p.m. Thursday, in the Farm Bureau auditorium, 319 S. Fayette St.

The three-hour course, which includes an intermission when refreshments will be served, will be conducted by officers of three law enforcement agencies. There also will be audience participation.

The course, which is designed by the Ohio State Patrol to promote driver safety, has become a well attended function of the BPW over the past five years.

Assisting Miss Frances White in arranging the meeting have been committeewomen Miss Mary Sauer, Mrs. William Rogers, Mrs. Dave Seaman and Mrs. Stanley Brown.

Instructors will include State Highway Patrolman James Wingo, of the Wilmington Patrol Post, Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks and Police Patrolman Dennis Brown.

The course is open to the public, especially driver's education students from the high schools.

Firm rings bells, ends up in court

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Fairfield, Ohio, police have charged a shopping center operator with being a "bell ringer" businessman.

In Fairfield, it's against the law to ring a bell or use any other sound device to attract business.

"We've had nothing but praise for the carillon," said William Minnielli, 43. "We have had requests to turn it up."

One Fairfield resident, Robert Smith, apparently didn't agree. He signed the warrant.

The case goes to court May 22.

Opening lead - queen of hearts.

Many contracts fail due to unlucky distribution, but some of them can be rescued by means not readily apparent.

Let's say you're in six diamonds and West leads a heart. You win with the ace, expecting to make all the tricks, but when you lead the A-K of trumps, West shows out and you realize that even the small slam is now in danger.

However, all is not yet lost, for East may have to follow suit when you now play the K-Q-10 of spades. If he does, you can discard a heart on the fourth round of spades and so make the slam.

Unfortunately, East ruffs the third spade, cashes a heart, and down you go.

This is certainly an unlucky result, since the trumps could have been divided 3-2 or East might have had the simple decency to hold three or more spades. Nevertheless, the fact is that the contract might have come home with a slightly different method of play.

After seeing the 4-1 trump division, the best play is to cash the king of spades and play the ten to the ace. When you next lead the nine, it becomes far from easy for East to ruff — because he may think West has the queen.

East is apt to discard on the spade lead from dummy, because he may think your hand looks something like this:

In that case, he would hand you the slam by ruffing the nine but defeat you by discarding on it.

If he discarded, you would make the slam by crossing to dummy with a club and discarding a heart on the jack of spades. Your conscience might bother you for having stolen a slam you were not entitled to make, but that is a penalty you should feel happy to pay.

Ear Wax Out, Cough Vanishes

I feel silly when I tell my friends that a doctor cured my cough by removing wax from my ears.

It actually did happen. An irritating cough I had for three months disappeared the moment the wax came out.

Mrs. T.E.W., Ill.

Dear Mrs. W.:

You have made a significant scientific observation. This is an established fact that has been recognized by ear, nose and throat specialists for many years. They have noted that when they clean the outer ear canal with a cottontip applicator, some patients cough.

A cough is due to some irritation of the vagus nerve which is the largest nerve that descends from the brain and goes to the lungs and to the disphragm. A tiny, barely visible nerve that runs along the floor of the ear canal and touches the eardrum is connected with the vagus nerve and can be responsible for the cough you describe.

I recall removing a bead that had been lying for many months in the ear of a small boy. He, too, had a cough that had been difficult to control and to explain. When the bead was removed, the cough disappeared, to the delight of the parents and the child.

I get so tired that I hope I will be able to finish writing this letter.

After a few lines, my hands begin to shake. What can I do about this? I am 71 years old.

Mr. H.B., R.I.

Dear Mr. B.:

Such tremors can be caused by many conditions, especially in the older age groups. Many of these tremors do not exist until some activity or motion is begun.

Neurological conditions must be considered. Weakness of muscles, poor nutrition, and vascular disturbances may be responsible. Of course, the underlying cause must be found before any effort can be made to eliminate it.

There are a great many new and excellent drugs that can stabilize these tremors. Patients with Parkinson's disease, for example, are getting relief from the characteristic tremor of the hands, with the drug L-dopa.

A patient of mine who was unable to control a pen easily found her own way of handling this problem. She found she was able to type letters with surprisingly little effort. This might be beneficial to you especially if an electric typewriter were used because it takes so little energy.

You once suggested a drug to relieve severe leg cramps. I can't find the clipping. Would you repeat it?

Mr. D.N., N.J.

Dear Mr. N.:

Leg cramps that occur at night can be relieved by quinine. Other drugs used to dilate the blood vessels are also suggested by doctors.

Warm compresses applied to the muscle that is in spasm usually brings relief. An interesting suggestion was made by Dr. L. B. Lowe, of Roanoke, Va. He found that his patients could get relief from leg cramps by soaking their hands in hot water for a few minutes!

Connally out to establish power base

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For John B. Connally, there is a job of political salesmanship ahead if he is to establish firmly his new Republican credentials in time for what looks like a crowded 1976 presidential contest.

As he switched parties, Connally said he sought no office, appointive or elective. That is the kind of thing politicians say three years in advance of a presidential campaign.

It is also the kind of thing other politicans discount.

Formally joining the GOP in its hour of Watergate trouble, Connally has been warmly greeted by the party establishment. But some of the same Republican leaders who welcomed him aboard are likely to be his rivals in the years immediately ahead.

When that time comes, men like Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Sen. Charles H. Percy may well be pointing out that Connally after all is a fledgling Republican with a long Democratic past.

Agnew, Percy, and Govs. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California all are potential entries in 1976 Republican presidential competition. There may be more.

So Connally clearly is not going to move to the top of his new party without a fight.

Having forsaken his Democratic ties, the former Texas governor now needs to get his lines open and his alliances made in the Republican party.

He has the advantage of his role as head man of Democrats for Nixon, an assignment that demonstrated his political preference, and leaves him out of what has become the Watergate scandal.

Associates had said Connally's long anticipated political switch was delayed because of the Watergate controversy. He denies that, saying the scandal had nothing to do with his timing.

Monday, he turned up in Key Biscayne, Fla., to confer with President Nixon at the President's request. He left without taking a new assignment in the administration, but that may yet happen, at least on a part-time or temporary basis.

There had been reports he might be offered appointment as secretary of defense, but the word was that he wasn't interested.

There have been suggestions that he might have had that job in the first Nixon term had he not decided in the waning days of the 1968 campaign to stick with the Democratic ticket instead of openly boosting Nixon in Texas.

The President is a Connally admirer. He once said the Texan could handle any job in the nation or the world. Nixon is said to have told a White House visitor early this year that Connally is likely to top the GOP ticket next time.

More recently, Nixon has been quoted as saying that Illinois' Sen. Percy will never be nominated if he has anything to say about it, in an angry response to Percy's pressure for a special prosecutor in the Watergate case.

But it now appears that Nixon may not have much to say about it. He would enter 1976 as a politician serving his last year in his last office, with dwindling powers to reward or punish politically.

And whatever the outcome of the Watergate case, it will scar the administration.

Republicans are not likely to take their 1976 directions from an outgoing President whose 1972 campaign was pocked by that scandal.

Switching parties a week ago, Connally was asked what he intends to do next. John Milton said 'They also serve who only stand and wait,' so hopefully, that's the way I can play it for a while," he replied.

But the people who shape Republican politics don't spend much time reading the poetry of John Milton.

States move to reimpose capital punishment laws

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lawmakers in about a dozen states have restored the death penalty, and measures to bring back capital punishment are under consideration in at least 15 more states.

An Associated Press survey showed that measures reinstating the death sentence for certain crimes have been enacted in Florida, Montana, Nebraska, Georgia, Connecticut, Nevada, Arkansas, Wyoming, and Utah. Tennessee legislators also have passed capital punishment bills that are awaiting governors signatures.

In Ohio, capital punishment is to be restored on Jan. 1, 1974, under a revised criminal code bill signed by Gov. John Gilligan last Dec. 22. Capital murder newly defined consists of premeditated murder, murder by concealed weapon and a felony murder.

The Supreme Court ruled last July, in cases involving Texas and Georgia, that the death penalty as imposed in most states was unconstitutional. The ruling left the way open for capital punishment to be reinstated, providing it is imposed uniformly.

Most of the new laws and the pending measures list specific crimes for which the death penalty may be imposed—usually the killing of a policeman or fireman and various other types of murder.

The most recent restoration of the death penalty came in Connecticut and Nevada where action was completed last week. In both states, the conditions leading to imposition of the death penalty include the murder of a policeman or fireman on duty, murder for pay and murder committed by prisons on inmates serving life sentences.

Arguments over just when the death penalty should be imposed—if at all—have stalled capital punishment bills in several states.

Twisters hit 3 Ohio areas; damage high

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes touched down in the suburbs of Cleveland and Columbus Tuesday, causing extensive property damage, but no injuries were reported.

The village of Dublin, just northwest of Columbus, was hit about 5 p.m. by a twister that overturned a car, ripped the roof off a building and uprooted trees.

About the same time northeast of Columbus in Delaware County a tornado damaged property in a brick yard.

A tornado touched down several times Tuesday night in Olmsted Township, a Cleveland suburb, damaging several buildings, a camper and a boat.

After doing damage to the buildings and camper the tornado trailed through several fields and ripped up a section of Penn Central railroad tracks before lifting from the ground for good, police said.

Showers gradually ended over the state Tuesday night with a few sprinkles still reported in the early morning hours. At dawn skies were still cloudy and temperatures were in the 50s.

The early weather map showed the cold front that brought the showery weather lay to the east of Ohio extending from western New York to northern Georgia.

Clouds will break open over the state and there should be considerable sunshine Wednesday afternoon, with high temperatures in the low and mid 70s over most of Ohio.

The National Weather Service said the good weather will be short lived. Another cold front system now moving eastward will be spreading showers into Ohio Thursday, possibly beginning in the northwest late tonight. However, rather mild temperatures are expected to continue with Thursday afternoon highs again in the 70s.

Showers and thunderstorms dampened much of the northern half of the nation today, hitting widely scattered acres with soaking rains and violent winds.

Locally heavy thunderstorms struck parts of the eastern seaboard, and a flash-flood watch was issued for the mountains and foothills of South Carolina.

Scattered thundershowers rolled across the Midwest from the lower Great Lakes to the Appalachians.

A dense cluster of violent thunderstorms in north-central Texas also spawned a pair of tornadoes.

In the Southwest, residents of several small northern Arizona communities along the Silver Creek below an earthen dam on White Mountain Lake were told to prepare for possible evacuation. The reservoir was full because of the winter snow runoff, and the dam began leaking Tuesday.

The Mississippi River remained above flood stage over most of its southern half today for the 60th day in a row. The 1844 record of 58 days above flood level was passed Tuesday.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 34 at Evanston, Wyo., to 80 at Blythe and Needles, Calif.

Five state issues fail at polls

Lottery amendment OKd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Opposition to a state lottery may be concentrated in the legislative halls this week after voters gave solid approval Tuesday to removing a constitutional prohibition against it.

Five other state constitutional changes were rejected. Voters approved an amendment to permit the legislature to change its procedures.

The lottery amendment removes a constitutional prohibition. Implementation legislation has already passed the Senate. Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, major lottery supporter, said he hopes to get the bill out of the House Rules Committee this week and headed for a floor vote.

With all polling places reporting, the lottery vote was 971,833 for and 548,133 against.

The amendment to allow the legislature to change its procedures, and put in the constitution a provision for annual sessions was approved 679,076 for and 575,881 against.

Mottl said he was "enthused" with voter response to the lottery question, which has been around the legislature four years.

The lottery was the chief item of interest on statewide ballots. There was no statewide primary races and election officials said less than 40 per cent of the voters went to the polls.

"Thank God for the big cities," Mottl said as the metropolitan areas gave the proposal a big boost. "I'm glad I'm a big city boy." Actually, the proposal wasn't in doubt from the first general recap of votes in Secretary of State Ted Brown's office.

Five constitutional amendment proposals were voted down.

They would:

—Authorize state and local government to "quick take" private property needed for sewer and water approvements and argue over the costs with the owner later. The vote was 405,418 for; 990,726 against.

—Delete language in the constitution prohibiting convicted embezzlers from holding public office. The issue already is covered in criminal statutes. The vote was 530,227 for; 847,535 against.

—Eliminate a requirement of a Supreme Court Commission to rule on qualifications for holding public office and handle matters dealing with the court, a provision that hasn't been activated in 100 years. The vote was 564,767 for; 692,360 against.

—Authorize the legislature to amend the Supreme Court's proposed rules of procedure, which it may now consider only as a package. If the package isn't rejected, they go into effect immediately. The vote was 579,953 for; 680,719 against.

—Allow Ohio's municipal and county court judges, like those in other courts, to receive pay increases during their term of office. The vote was 646,147 for; 679,544 against.

ELLIOT RICHARDSON

Richardson meets panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson goes before the Senate Judiciary Committee today for questioning on his nomination to be attorney general with attention focused on his plans to name a special Watergate prosecutor.

No opposition has surfaced to President Nixon's nomination of Richardson, now secretary of Defense, to succeed Richard G. Kleindienst as head of the Justice Department.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told newsmen he assumes Richardson will win the unanimous approval of the Judiciary Committee.

But Mansfield said serious consideration should be given to delaying Senate confirmation of Richardson's nomination until an outside prosecutor is selected to take over the Justice Department's investigation of the Watergate case and related charges of political espionage and sabotage in last year's presidential campaign.

Mansfield said this would not be an expression of any lack of confidence in Richardson but rather a move to speed up appointment of a special prosecutor.

Richardson announced two days ago that he will appoint a special prosecutor, as Nixon authorized him to do, but said it may take "some time to find the right person."

"He must not only be an individual of the highest character and integrity but be widely so recognized," Richardson said. "He must not have been associated with any of the persons alleged or suspected to have had a part in matters under investigation."

Richardson said he would give the outside prosecutor, who would report only to him, "all the independence, authority, and staff support needed to carry out tasks entrusted to him."

Fayette Countians oppose all issues

Fayette County voters were in a negative frame of mind Tuesday as they voted against all seven state issues on the ballot, including a 773-1,335 defeat of the proposal which would open the way for a state-operated lottery.

Balloting was extremely light in the county with a total of 2,122 voters. In comparison, 10,386 persons voted in November, 1968; the heaviest Fayette County turnout in recent years. The total Tuesday included 1,056 voters in the city, and 1,066 in the county.

The only proposed constitutional change even coming close to passage in Fayette County was Issue No. 6, a proposal to authorize the legislature to revise its operating rules and to require annual sessions. This proposal was turned down 841-1,022.

ISSUE NO. 1, the state lottery question, was rejected by 562 votes. The question received approval in only three of the county's 42 precincts, and was tied in another.

Issues No. 2 and 3 were both solidly defeated in the county. Issue No. 2, a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize the state and its political subdivisions to claim unused land for water and sewer improvements with financial settlements handled in subsequent litigation, was defeated 403-1,598.

Issue No. 3, a proposal to remove langauge from the constitution prohibiting embezzlers of public funds from holding public office unless the funds are repaid, was turned down 596-1,418. Issue No. 2 and No. 3 were rejected in all Fayette County precincts.

Issue No. 4 was defeated 610-1,252. This was a proposal to delete from the Constitution authority for the governor to appoint an Ohio Supreme Court commission. One precinct, A-4, passed the proposal 23-13, and precinct 2-A registered a tie vote.

Issue No. 5, allowing the General Asembly to change as well as accept or reject Ohio Supreme Court rules and procedures for all courts, was turned down 726-1,147. This proposal was passed in three precints and tied in one.

THE PROPOSAL to permit municipal court judges to receive in-term pay increases, Issue No. 5-A, was rejected in the county 777-1,155. Six precincts approved the measure, and a tie vote was recorded in one precinct.

Seven of the 44 precincts gave approval to Issue No. 6, the proposal to change the General Assembly's procedures and require annual sessions. A tie vote was registered in the Wayne-West precinct.

The first precinct to report totals was 1-F at 7:03 p.m. The final precinct to report at the Board of Elections office was 4-C at 8:54 p.m. The vote tally was completed at 9:12 p.m.

Precinct 3-A had the most voters with 112. The least number of voters were in Octa precinct with 12, an average of one per hour during the polling period.

Kissinger ends talks

MOSCOW (AP) — Henry Kissinger said today his talks with Soviet leaders had been "very cordial," but there would have to be more exchanges before the date of Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev's visit to the United States is announced.

President Nixon's chief adviser on foreign policy told newsmen as he left for London, "We had very cordial talks. We covered all the subjects we came to discuss.... The talks were very satisfactory."

Asked about the Brezhnev visit, which has been expected in late June, Kissinger said, "We have to have some more exchanges before we announce the date."

Kissinger spent most of his six-day visit in talks with Brezhnev and other officials in a hideaway at Zavidovo, 60 miles north of Moscow.

CIA to explain role in scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is sending top present and former officials to Capitol Hill to explain why disguises and spy cameras were supplied to White House aides bent on burglary.

The testimony is to be given in secret before senior senators and it comes after these disclosures:

—The CIA told the Justice Department as early as October that it had given logistical support to two White House operatives who allegedly masterminded a 1971 Los Angeles burglary in search of the psychiatric records of Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

—CIA's involvement was stopped abruptly after warnings the agency is barred by law from conducting "domestic clandestine operations."

The extent and legality of that involvement are now being investigated by three congressional committees.

And the CIA's former deputy director, Gen. Robert Cushman, who now commands the Marine Corps, is returning home from the Netherlands to explain his role.

Cushman's involvement was confirmed Tuesday by CIA Director James R. Schlesinger. He was reported by a congressman to have said CIA aid was given to White House aides E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy for five weeks in 1971 under Cushman's authority.

Schlesinger, the leadoff witness in hearings today before a CIA appropriations subcommittee, told Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., that the CIA reported its actions to the Justice Department in October 1972.

Nedzi, chairman of a House subcommittee which oversees the CIA, said it wasn't made clear if the report included the connection with the case of Ellsberg who is now on trial for copying the Pentagon papers and giving them to newspapers.

Liddy and Hunt were later arrested, tried and convicted in the burglary and bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate.

Solons offer Watergate immunity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators are said to be offering limited immunity from prosecution to obtain sworn and public testimony from as many as eight persons linked to the Watergate case.

The disclosure, from sources close to the Senate's Watergate committee, came Tuesday as the panel announced it will open long-awaited public hearings next week.

The committee said it may grant partial immunity to the man who has sought it the hardest—ousted White House counsel John Dean III.

In addition to Dean, the committee reportedly is considering extending immunity to the four Miami men arrested in the Watergate June 17, and also to Jeb Stuart Magruder, a former Nixon campaign official, and to convicted Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

Dean has been quoted as saying he has information linking President Nixon to a cover-up of the bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate.

The Senate sources said the only opposition to considering immunity for Dean came from the panel's ranking Republican, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn.

Baker voiced no such opposition to newsmen later.

As the committee prepared to "go public," other figures in the case were reported near indictment or under pressure to resign government jobs.

The New York Daily News, quoting "an unimpeachable source," reported the Watergate grand jury now believes enough evidence is in hand to indict former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Mitchell called the report "irresponsible" and asserted he is guiltless of illegal involvement.

Meanwhile, former White House aide Egil Krogh was reported under intense pressure to resign as undersecretary of transportation because of his admitted role in the burglary of the Los Angeles office of a psychiatrist treating Daniel Ellsberg.

The pressure was said to be coming from Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar.

Krogh, on indefinite leave from his $42,500-a-year job, headed a White House detachment seeking to plug security leaks. The leaks included one involving Ellsberg, now on trial for copying the top-secret Pentagon Papers and giving them to newspapers.

Krogh's affidavit, sent to the Ellsberg trial judge in Los Angeles, named convicted Watergate conspirators Hunt and Liddy as the men who actually planned the burglary.

His account led to the release of a separate statement by Hunt who claimed he got technical help—including disguises and concealed cameras—from the Central Intelligence Agency.

CIA documents made available at the Ellsberg trial on Tuesday said the aid to Hunt was authorized by Marine Gen. Robert Cushman when he was deputy director of the agency.

Cushman has been ordered to return from a trip to the Netherlands and is scheduled Thursday to give an explanation to senior senators assigned to oversee CIA operations.

In other Watergate developments:

—The State Department confirmed Hunt was given access in September 1971 to State Department cables dealing with Vietnam and copied 240 of them. A department spokesman said permission for Hunt to read the file was given at the request of David Young, then a White House foreign policy adviser.

Hunt's affidavit released to the Ellsberg trial stated he doctored official cables to implicate falsely the Kennedy administration in the 1963 murders of South Vietnamese leaders.

—Federal District Judge Matt Byrne said he will rule Thursday on whether to dismiss charges against Ellsberg and co-defendant Anthony Russo whose lawyers contend the White House and Watergate entanglement has tainted evidence against them.

Marine Gen. Vandegrift dies; hero of Guadalcanal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grandson of a Confederate soldier, Marine Corps Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift was weaned to a military tradition as a child on tales of the Civil War.

"My grandfather fought in the Confederate army and from the time I was a youngster listening to his stories of the war I wanted to be a military man," he once said.

Vandegrift died Tuesday at 86. He had been hospitalized with an illness at Bethesda Naval Hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md.

He had served as a commandant of the Marines and led the American invasion of Guadalcanal credited with upsetting for the first time the Japanese timetable for victory in World War II.

The Southern-born Vandegrift was an admirer of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee and liked to cite Lee's principle of being unwilling to sacrifice the life of a single one of his men.

He was a major general at the time of Guadalcanal and won the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Navy Cross for his leadership in the fight to take the island.

In 1944 Vandegrift was named commandant. He held the job until his retirement in 1948.

Vandegrift will be buried at Arlington National Cemetery, at a time to be announced.

He is survived by his widow, Kathryn; a stepson, William G. McDaniel of Winston-Salem, N.C.; eight grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Rights amendment dead in Ohio until 1975

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Backers of the ill-fated women's equal rights amendment don't plan to give up, but they concede it's a dead issue in Ohio, at least until 1975.

The Senate Financial Institutions, Insurance, and Elections Committee sounded the death knell for the controversial amendment Tuesday by a 5-4 vote. The vote came on a motion to reconsider the 6-3 vote by which the committee had rejected it earlier.

Rep. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, the main sponsor who guided the proposal to 56-40 approval in the House March 28, expressed disappointment over the action by the Senate panel, but insisted: "It's not dead, not yet."

He pointed out that the states have until 1979 to act on the amendment and added: "If I am re-elected, the first thing I will do in 1975 is introduce a new resolution."

The committee vote came as members of the Senate and House returned from weekend recess for floor sessions and passed two bills each.

The House added its approval to Senate bills moving the Division of Aviation from the Commerce Department to the Department of Transportation, and authorizing school districts to hold their organizational meetings anytime in the first 15 days of January instead of on the first Monday of January.

All but five House Republicans went along with the aviation bill after receiving assurances from Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, and others that Transportation Director J. Phillip Richley will retain Aviation Director Norman Crabtree.

Crabtree is a holdover from the Republican administration of former Gov. James Rhodes. The aviation director endorsed the bill which would consolidate all modes of transportation in the state in Richley's department. The bill went to the governor by a 77-5 vote.

Senators approved without dissent a pair of bills that would authorize a funeral home to retain the name of a retiring director-owner and raise clerks' fees for the selling of hunting, fishing, and trapping licenses from 35 cents to 50 cents.

Sen. William H. Mussey, R-14 Batavia, said the license fee bill would Struthers School District voters passed two tax levies totaling 6.5-mills, but West Branch Local rejected a $2 million bond issue.

Stock list on upside

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were mixed today, and analysts said the momentum of Tuesday's rally lost power in the absence of any positive news developments.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials which climbed nearly 3 points in the first hour, had fallen .83 to 955.75 by noon.

Advances held almost a 7-to-4 lead over declines in rather quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The broadbased NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks declined, however, and was down .03 to 58.87 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices were broadly higher, and the price-change index was up .01 to 23.69.

Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co. attributed the Dow's initial gain to a carry-over from Tuesday's advance, when the blue-chip indicator rose almost 6 points.

"The market has shaken off the effects of Watergate and Equity Funding, and institutional buying has stepped up," he said.

Other factors contributing to a market recovery were the recent optimistic statements about the economy made by members of the Nixon administration, according to brokers.

U.S. court orders EPA funds freed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overriding President Nixon's efforts to withhold appropriated funds, a federal court has ordered the Environmental Protection Agency to release all the money Congress has approved for fighting water pollution.

Nixon had announced his intention to forward to states and municipalities less than half the $11 billion Congress appropriated for fiscal years 1973 and 1974. The money is to be used for building sewage-treatment plants.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch, in a suit brought by the city of New York, said Tuesday that the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 "clearly indicates the intent of Congress to require the administrator (of the EPA) to allot at the appropriate times the full sums authorized."

Nixon had ordered the funds cut as part of his campaign to limit spending.

Gasch quoted a recent court decision: "'In our over-all pattern of government, the judicial branch has the function of requiring the executive branch to stay within the limits prescribed by the legislative branch.'"

He did not mention the case in which the decision was rendered. But the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis recently ordered the Department of Transportation to provide all highway-construction funds the federal government appropriated for the state of Missouri.

In another recent court test that went against the White House in its battle with Congress over who sets spending levels, a federal court in Washington, D.C., ordered a stop to Nixon's dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, which Nixon sought as another budget move.

Gasch cited both decisions.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — U. S. Rep. Thomas Ludlow Ashley, D-Ohio, has been fined $400 and sentenced to three days in the workhouse after pleading no contest to charges of having physical control of a car while intoxicated and resisting arrest.

The charges stemmed from an incident last month when Ashley was found slumped behind the wheel of his car on the Anthony Wayne Trail on Toledo near South Side.

Navy Reserve group to visit Guard station

Appoximately 50 Washington Senior High School NJROTC cadets and their instructors will accompany Company A, 166th Infantry, local Army National Guard Unit, to Camp Perry this weekend.

Commander Robert L. Self (USN ret.), and First Sgt. Robert Goodson said the cadets will visit all the ranges and have the opportunity to fire certain weapons for familiarization. The cadets will also take a bus tour of the lake area and visit a nearby Coast Guard station.

They will leave Friday night on military buses.

The guard unit will fire M-16A1 rifles for qualification and familiarization at the lakefront ranges. They will also qualify on grenade launchers, .45 caliber pistols, and the M1A1C sniper rifle.

Quarterly military occupation tests will be given and a military drivers license examination station will be conducted, Sgt. Goodson said.

The guard unit and NJROTC brigade are scheduled to return Sunday afternoon.

Man, wife both dead in shooting

HUNTSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A man shot to death here early today after taking his estranged wife and baby hostage has been identified as Jack Maynard, 27, of Lima.

Logan County Sheriff's deputies found Maynard and his wife, Nancy, 18, dead of bullet wounds inside the woman's home.

Sheriff Dewees Skidmore said he did not know who fired the shots that killed the couple. He said sheriff's deputies fired only one bullet.

Maynard barricaded himself, wife and baby inside the home shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday.

At one point more than 40 law officers from Logan and nearby counties and villages surrounded the house. The sheriff's deputies shot out street lights and used tear gas in an attempt to flush the gunman.

The baby is reported in good condition at a local hospital.

Earlier, police said Maynard had abducted a woman and her two children in an auto but abandoned them before making his way to the house.

Maynard reportedly had threatened to commit suicide.

Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, was the only senator to switch his position on the ERA amendment on the committee headed by Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati. Members had been under considerable pressure from legislative lieutenants of Gov. John Gilligan, who endorsed the proposal.

Jackson made the motion to reconsider, and was joined by the three senators who supported it on the initial roll call two weeks ago. Besides Aronoff, they were Sens. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, a sponsor, and Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria.

Millions for paintings

The subject at hand is a 1.4-million-dollar telephone call. The story begins with the auctioneer at Sotheby Parke-Bernet Galleries in New York City glancing at a painting and announcing, "Lot 8, the Cezanne tulips."

This was a still life by the famed French impressionist called "Vase de Tulipes." The opening bid for the work was $500,000. Bidding progressed quickly by $50,000 increments until it reached $1,300,000. Whereupon an assistant to the auctioneer took a telephone call and glanced at her boss, who after receiving only silent looks from the latest bidders announced: "At 1.4 million. Sold on the telephone."

This prompts feelings of admiration for cool behavior under pressure. Sale of the Cezanne, and of a Manet for an identical sum, and of 47 works all told for a total of $6,782,900, also prompts where-will-it-all-end speculation about price trends in the art world.

Over the past few years we have witnessed a succession of phenomenal sales. Paintings by old masters have fetched staggering prices. As the auction mentioned above indicates, the works of some 20th Century masters also are pushing into the million-dollar class.

Inevitably, the somewhat testy thought comes to mind that except in rare cases it is not the artists themselves who reap these great rewards. Most often their paintings become objects not only of enjoyment but also of investment and speculation long after the creators' deaths.

One should not be excessively bitter about this. There also is a tradition which moves some wealthy owners of works of genius to present them to museums and otherwise share this unique beauty with the public.

All the same, with a small group of 20th Century paintings going for nearly seven million at a brief auction, one wonders if the steep rise in art prices will ever level off.

An assured blood supply

The story of how University of Miami students have for a dozen years been "blood brothers" of young Timothy Strohbach is both heart-warming and depressing. The latter sentiment is prompted by the thought that this 15-year-old lad and others who share his plight should not have to rely on the generosity of individual blood donors.

The blood which hemophiliacs need to stay alive should be provided automatically as a function of a benevolent society.

This is not at all intended to demean the loving service performed for Timothy Strohbach by a succession of students. They have donated 2,400 pints of blood for his use. As one of the donors put it, "'Each year Timmy is inherited by a new wave of students." Certainly we do not urge allowing the heavy hand of bureaucracy to interfere with this happy arrangement.

But what of the Timothys who are not so fortunate as to have such a supportive band of "blood brothers"? One recalls the recent stories relating the struggles of a despairing family to assure the needed blood supply for a child.

That case illustrated the point we make. There are many hemophiliacs scattered about the country. Not all of them have the support, real or potential, of a nearby student population.

Yet each one is surely as entitled as any other to the chance of survival and a more or less normal life that only a constant supply of blood can assure.

Collectively, we should see to this.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Does our form of government have to condone unethical practices by public elected and appointed officials? Election and bribery scandals seem to be in vogue.

The governor with the state legislature are working to provide an ethics law with teeth in it to keep Ohio's state and local officials clean. Under the proposed law public elected, appointed and candidates shall disclose their source of income immediately before and during their terms in office.

Why should anyone be ashamed of their source of income?

The state needs some cleaning in its own right before it can expect public officials to be Simon pure. Take for instance the Motor Vehicle Tax Department which allows local registrars to play with motor vehicle license plates in selling certain personal numbers and letters to a selected few for almost any extra fees the traffic will bear, some enormous.

Ethics in government? Public trust in one hand with the other hand in a cookie jar?

As to the recent breaking of scandals we are in no doubt in need of ethics legislation.

Some public elected officials seem to be using public time in lobbying against ethic legislation. Why should salaried public officials be involved in setting up ethics standards for their own positions? Seems to be a matter for the legislative department and the nonofficial public to determine.

Should county commissioners, township trustees and township clerks be exempted from such legislation?

Questionable public ethics should be everyones concern. Write or call your governor and state legislators in supporting the ethics measure.

"I WONDER HOW RALPH NADER FEELS ABOUT ALL THIS?"

Hal Boyle . .

Have a helping of squid . . .

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Editor's Note: Hal Boyle is ill.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The recent meat boycott didn't make much difference at our house. We haven't been heavy beef eaters since 50-cent steaks disappeared.

Ever since beef began really rising, it's been fish fry or chicken fry nearly every day with only moderate amounts of red meat.

And then there was the squid disaster.

Ran into a fellow a few weeks ago just as he was entering the friendly neighborhood pool hall.

He is an ex-Marine and has been all over the world and knows good food from bad.

"Come over here," he ordered in his best sergeant's manner.

"Want to show you somethine!"

He went to his car, obtained a package and opened it.

Inside were a lot of pretty, silver-colored fish, just a bit larger than a sardine.

"Delicious," said the sergeant. "Fry them in butter and they're out of this world. Cheap, too."

"What are they?"

"Smelts."

Dashed home to tell my wife about this great new find.

And she rushed out to the friendly neighborhood fish store.

Half an hour later, she dashed back and dumped three pound of frozen squid on the drainboard.

Squid!

That's what it said on the wrapping. Unfortunately, that was what was inside, too.

Orientals and the Japanese in particular consider squid a delicacy. It hasn't found much favor among the rest of the population of this world, however, as far as we know, except around the Mediterranean Sea.

Three pounds of frozen squid are not cheap. So there was nothing to do but salvage something out of the deal by cleaning and eating them.

You take out most of the inside and throw them away and you have a nice-appearing, flat piece of meat left. At least we think that is the part you eat.

After that, you just fry it like any fish. My wife refused and that duty fell to you know who.

Forgot to tell you that squid have a distinct odor and when they're heated in the frying pan the odor become increasingly distinct.

About halfway through the frying, one of the offsprings said, "I think I'll go out and get a hamburger instead."

The other announced, "I'm just getting out of here."

My wife said, "Believe I'll just have a glass of milk for dinner tonight."

Well, managed to choke down about half of a squid. Gave up and dumped the whole thing in the cat's dish.

Cats, as you well know, will eat any kind of fish.

But not this time. This feline took one sniff and bolted for the door. Couldn't find him until the next afternoon.

Help! My husband needs spelling lessons

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my husband's spelling. It's horrid. I swear I don't know how he ever got out of high school.

He is just beginning his career as a policeman, and his poor spelling has already started giving him trouble. He has to make out reports in writing and when he writes, "suspishun" and "rezizting" on a report, it raises a lot of eyebrows.

He talks well, but his spelling is outrageous. I told him to carry a small dictionary and to look up any word he isn't sure of. He says: "You have to know how to spell a word before you can find it in the dictionary so what's the use?"

Abby, do you know where an adult can learn how to spell from scratch? Even if it took a year it would be miracle enough for us. Thank you.

WORRIED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Call your board of education and ask them what is available in their adult education department. Evening classes, or special tutoring could be the answer but first your husband should take some tests to determine the kind of special help he needs.

DEAR ABBY: You've made references to May-December marriages, but you have never given any advice with regard to them. You should, and it should be one word. DON'T.

I have witnessed four, including my own, and all of them have been very unsatisfactory. Especially for the younger partner. Older husbands make poor fathers. Children make them nervous, and they are too tired to go anywhere with their young wives, and all too soon they are inadequate lovers.

A young woman is flattered to be pursued by a dashing, sophisticated "older" swain. But after they are married, he becomes a dull old man. When she is 22 and he is 36, the age difference doesn't show much, but when she is 35 and he is 49, things start to go downhill for her.

I wish someone would have wised me up. Until a woman has lived in such a marriage, she has no idea how many problems arise.

SHORT-CHANGED IN KANSAS

DEAR SHORT: I rarely give advice with regard to marriages and age because one's condition is far more important than his age. Some men of 65 are in much better shape than some men of 30. While youth is prized, it's no assurance of vim, vigor and virility.

DEAR ABBY: Today when so many marriage are going sour, may I tell you about one which was sweet for almost 63 years?

I married a wonderful girl in April 1910. She was 5 years my senior. We had five children who bore us 27 grandchildren. They in turn bore us 10 great-grandchildren all doing well.

My beloved died last December. I have her engagement and wedding rings and don't know what to do with them.

Would it be prudent to sell them and give the money to the orphans? Your reply would be appreciated.

A READER: TEMPLE, ARIZONA

DEAR READER: Someone in your family may place a high sentimental value on the rings your beloved wore for so many years. Don't sell them before letting your family know you want to dispose of them. If more than one wants them, let them draw lots. And lots of luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHITE VERSUS PURPLE IN PANAMA CITY: Neither! To be appropriately attired for a divorce hearing, I'd vote for BLACK. In a sense, one is burying a dead relationship.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

'Horizons for women' offered to homemakers

Food, fashion, beauty, home decoration, consumer protection, to work or not-to-work outside the home, keeping on an even keel!

You'll find them all - and then some - in the two-day short-short-short course "Horizons for Women," sponsored by the Continuing Education Department of Ohio Dominican College and the Cooperative Extension Service (CES) of the Ohio State University, May 16 and 17.

Approximately 300 women from Central and Southern Ohio are expected to attend the sessions scheduled for the Ohio Dominican College campus, 1216 Sunbury Rd., Columbus.

Mrs. Ezelle Hawkins, assistant state leader, Home Economics, the Cooperative Extension Service of Ohio State, 1787 Neil Ave., Columbus, with whom reservations should be made, said today: "The joint program provides participants the opportunity to register for a two-hour course of her choice each day. Ten such courses are listed from which she may choose. In addition scheduling permits her attendance at one of five mini-lessons, which will last approximately 45 minutes.

Cooperative Extension Service representatives or faculty of Ohio Dominican will be instructors for both the longer and the abbreviated discussion periods.

Course subjects, taught by CES representatives include: psychology of color in home decoration - Dorothy Teater; foods (health and organic, additives and labeling) - Alma Saddam; your worth (to work inside vs. outside the home) - Geraldine Olsen; update: consumer protection - Norleen Ackerman: psychological and sociological aspects of clothing design, lines and colors - Norma Deyo; and adjustment to the children's first home away from home - Alice Tommas.

Taught by Ohio Dominican instructors or other leaders in their field will be: housing for the elderly - Martha Recchie, home economics department; judging an art piece - Juris Kakis, art department; and the changing roles of women - (Protestant view) Alice Skeel, home economics department, (Catholic view) Sister Joan Franks, O. P., philosophy department, and (Jewish view) Jean Eisenman, ODC alumna; and handling life's crises - Dr. Ann S. Bardwell, School of Home Economics of Ohio State.

Open session at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday (May 16) will focus on "Perspectives for Women," to be discussed by Ohio Dominican faculty members. Topics will include: the Biological Aspects of Womanhood - Grace Beery, science department; Images of Women in Literature - Sr. Louise Wilxman, English department; Historical Aspects of Feminism - Sister Loretta Forquer, history department.

Afternoon general session Thursday (May 17) will have as its topic: "It Could Happen to You" and will relate information on personal safety for women of all ages. Jeanne Bray, Policewoman of the City of Columbus will deliver the lecture and present the film.

Thursday morning and afternoon mini-sessions will provide opportunity for each participant to hear one discussion on make-up and beauty, furniture uplift, fashion, supermarket know-how and sewing. CES representatives Eleanor Kersh, Mary Kase, Jean McCleaster, Jonelle Long, and Olive Woodyard will instruct the short courses.

Mrs. Hawkins encouraged: "Take two days out to learn about yourself and women in general. Talk your neighbors into coming too. Form a car pool."

Full registration, covering program and lunch two days, is $10; partial registration - a single day's attendance for lunch and program is $7.

MR. AND MRS. DANNY W. SHARRETT

Miss Jenkins, Mr. Sharrett exchange marriage vows

Mr. and Mrs. Danny W. Sharrett have returned from their wedding trip which took them to places of interest in Florida.

Miss Mary Ellen Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jenkins, Rt. 2, became the bride of Danny Wilson Sharrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Lindy) Sharrett, of Jeffersonville, April 27.

The Rev. Earl Russell performed the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in the Sugar Grove Methodist Church before arrangements of pink and lavender carnations and candelabra entwined with greenery and bows. Mrs. Mary Black, organist, presented "Time for Us" and "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride wore a white empire satin bridal gown trimmed in white lace and self-covered buttons. Her lace veil was waist-length and her headpiece was caught to a cluster of flowers. The gown and veil were made by Mrs. Albert Bryant. She carried an arrangement of white daisies and white roses in a cross design.

Miss Belinda Ramey was the bridesmaid, and wore a gown of white bodice with rainbow colored skirt in shades of lavender and pink. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink, white and blue carnations with yellow daisies and pink sweetheart roses with pink ribbon.

Little Tami Jenkins, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a long lavender dress with long white smock and matching headpiece, and carried a basket of white, pink and yellow daisies.

Nick Foody, of Jamestown, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Mike Young and Bob Coe, both of Washington C.H.

The bride's mother greeted guests in a blue, green and yellow jersey frock with blue knit vest and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue knit dress with white chiffon sleeves and white accessories. Both wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

Hostesses for the reception in the social room of the church were Mrs. Marsha Edgington, Mrs. Debbie Reed, Mrs. Sharon Haines and Mrs. Clara Pollard.

The couple is residing at 26½ State St. in Jeffersonville. The new Mrs. Sharrett, a 1972 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is employed at the First National Bank. Her husband, a 1970 MTHS graduate, is employed by the Village of Jeffersonville.

Add minced chives to eggs that are going to be scrambled: then just before the eggs are ready, fold in cottage cheese. Delicious for a weekend brunch.

Leg of lamb dinner enjoyed by gourmet group

The Welcom Wagon gourmet group met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Spilker, Lakewood Hills, for a leg of lamb dinner. Lamb is a traditional Easter menu in the United States, but more of an every day meal in India and Greece, it was explained.

The hostess chose recipes of food to accent the meat such as eggplant, mint jellies, sweet potatoes combined with dried fruits and basted with wine. These recipes were prepared by each of the guests. The husbands all enjoyed the dinner.

The gourmet group is one of the many activities couples may enjoy through the Welcome Wagon Club. Members must be a new resident of Fayette County and be called on by one of the WW hostesses within six months, who invites them to join the club.

Once a member, new comers may participate in the activities.

Members present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. William Earley, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mattson, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Rich.

The next gettogether will be in July.

Farm statements not necessarily true

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Test yourself. There's a good chance that you believe one or more of the following statements:

—We don't have any more family farmers in this country. Oh, a few, of course, but the big corporations have taken over and they've pretty much run the little fellow out of business.

The facts dispute this widely held notion. Data from the 1969 census aren't available yet, but those who follow the trends, such as the Conference Board, believe that 95 per cent of farms are still family-operated.

That was the percentage found in other studies made in 1949, 1959 and 1964, even though there was a sharp decrease in the number of farms — from 6,350,000 in 1940 to 2,876,000 in 1970.

There are several reasons why the belief has taken hold. One is that the average farm size has grown from 175 acres to about 390 acres in the past 30 years or so. Another is that the 5 per cent nonfamily farms account for a big share of production — 35 per cent in 1964.

The fact is that many of the large corporations that did go into farming found it not nearly as profitable as they had expected, and some of them now believe that there may be size limitations on the efficient farm.

What is a family farm? According to the Agriculture Department it is "an agricultural business in which the operator is a risk-taking manager, who, with his family, does more than half of the farm work."

—The reason for our high food prices is the middleman. He's got a great big appetite for money, and he's making all of us pay through the nose.

The explanation isn't that simple. There's no denying that in recent years the foods that leave the farmer's lands go through many processes that add to delivery cost. But there's little evidence of any profiteering.

First National City Bank notes that civilian spending for farm foods in 1971 totaled $111.1 billion, an increase of $44.2 billion over 1960. Of this increase, farmers received only $13.5 billion, the middleman $30.7 billion.

However, little of this increase seems to be reflected in middleman profits. It seems there are more and more middlemen to prepare and distribute foods that once were delivered raw. And the middleman's expenses also have risen.

In summary: True, the transporting, processing and distribution of foods is eating up a lot more of the food dollar. But rather than blaming any one group, perhaps you should accuse our changing customs and appetites.

—By any measure, General Motors and American Telephone & Telegraph are the largest companies in the United States, in fact, the largest in the entire world. It's been that way for years.

Times change and that statement isn't true today. GM might be the largest manufacturer and have the greatest profits. And AT&T might have the greatest assets and the largest number of shareholders, but...

International Business Machines has the greatest market value of any company in the world, with investors giving it a price of $47.8 billion, That's the figure you'll arrive at by multiplying price per share by shares outstanding.

That price is almost double the combined market value of AT&T and GM. AT&T is in second place, with a value of $28.79 billion. GM is in fifth, with market value of $20.42 billion.

In between, in a compilation by Standard & Poor's, are Eastman Kodak, at $21.81 billion and Exxon, at $21.53 billion.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Hemmer, 29, is barely old enough to recall the glory days of radio when "The Lone Ranger" rode the aural range and "The Green Hornet" buzzed about on behalf of law and order.

But Hemmer, program director of radio station WDBQ-AM in Dubuque, Iowa, recently brought back the fun of the old days by broadcasting five shows written and submitted by listeners.

The authors were an artist at a local advertising agency, two high school teachers, a deputy sheriff and a 21-year-old female factory worker.

Hemmer got the scripts by unwittingly repeating radio history. The repeating occurred last January when WDBQ ran a "Radio Theater" contest inviting listeners to submit original half-hour scripts.

It's exactly the way many prominent writers today first were heard nationally, thanks to "Dr. Christian," a radio series broadcast several decades ago. It also asked listeners to submit original scripts.

One of those budding authors, Earl Hemner Jr., earned $500 for a script he sent in. He's better-known and earns considerably more today as creator of "The Waltons" series on CBS-TV.

Hemner, who says he never heard of the "Dr. Christian" series, laughed when asked how he came upon the idea of WDBQ's script search.

"I couldn't tell you," he said. "I've always been fascinated with old-time radio. A couple of years ago I thought, 'gee, wouldn't it be fun if we could do something like this.' And we finally did it."

He said the "Radio Theater" contest brought a total of 52 original scripts from the listening audience. He and his staff read them all, selected five for broadcast and went to work, using the station's disc jockeys and local residents as actors in the shows.

"There were no rewrites," he said. "We did them exactly the way they were written. Of course, we added sound effects and music."

The shows, broadcast during the last week in March, ranged from "Bill Bugoni, Private Eye" — a spoof of the old "Sam Spade" series" — to "The Second Chance," a show about a man whom the fates allow to return to his past.

The final show, "Red Lights and Sirens," was written by the deputy sheriff.

While the series was broadcast, listeners were invited to vote by mail on their favorite show. The authors got cash prizes ranging from $10 to the $100 award given the author of "Second Chance," which received the largest share of the 800 votes cast.

Hemmer, whose station has only 1,000 watts and limited funds for uuch efforts, says he's going to have another "Radio Theater" week in September and start calling for authors in mid-July.

He says he's still amazed by the response to the first contest.

"It was an absolute 100 per cent success and a lot of fun, to boot."

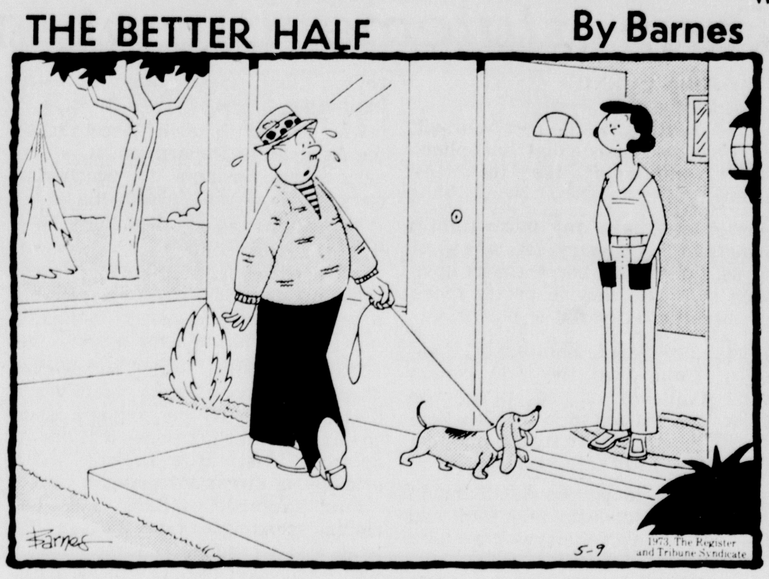

Truman statue fund drive set

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Students at Truman High School have begun a drive to raise $100,000 to $150,000 for a life-size statue of the school's namesake, former President Harry S. Truman.

Randy Davidson, president of the school's Student Council, announced the start of the drive today, the 89th anniversary of Truman's birth. He then made a contribution of $500 on the part of the students.

He said high school students throughout the nation would push the drive throughout the next school term.

Rotary park-pool project reviewed

A review of one of the Rotary Club's two major projects — Washington Park and its swimming pool and the Little League for elementary school boys — was given by Eli Craig at the club's luncheon Tuesday in the Country Club.

Craig, a Rotarian, prefaced his informal sortie into history, by explaining that he felt a rundown of the development of the park and swimming pool was not amiss, because a number of new members have come into the club since the project was begun and since it was last reviewed at a club meeting.

He reminded that the Rotary Club started the swimming pool project in 1946, 27 years ago, but it was not until June 25, 1950, that the pool finally was opened.

HE RECALLED that, with a nest egg of $5,000 from the old YMCA, and funds raised by public subscriptions, five acres of land with a couple of gravel pits between Oakland Avenue and the DT&I and B&O railroads, was purchased from G.W. Perry during World War II by the Washington Park Association. With that start, an estimate of $40,000 for construction of the pool was given. Led by three Rotarians, Glenn Woodmansee, Carroll Halliday and L.M. Hayes, along with Trent Sickles, Washington Hotel operator, the club started out to raise the money. Meanwhile, however, postwar inflation had boosted the cost estimate to $75,000. The money eventually was raised, and construction was started in the fall of 1949.

Ever since the park and swimming pool were in the preliminary talk stage, the Rotary Club has been the guiding hand as the Washington Park Association. Milbourne Flee is chairman of the board, which includes Billie Wilson, Richard E. Whiteside, William E. Williams, Ned Kinzer, L.M. Hayes and Craig. President Fred L. Domenico is an ex-officio member.

CRAIG ATTRIBUTED the success of the park and swimming pool operations to two factors: (1) the family membership which assures money at the start of each season and (2) the program of swimming instruction. Craig estimated the value of the present park and pool property at $150,000 to $175,000. He also disclosed that the association has a reserve for addition (pool enlarged once) improvements, but he did not go into detail.

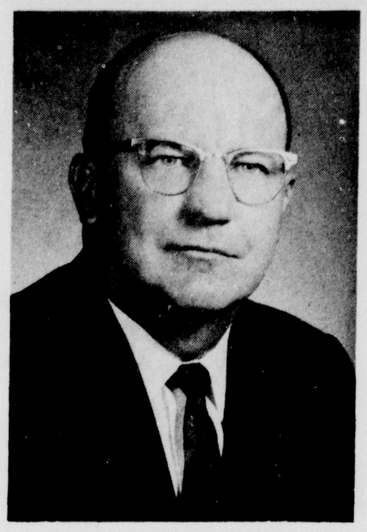

Craig pointed out that although the park and pool are a continuing project of the Rotary Club, few Rotarians, other than those on the board, are familiar with the operations.

THE CLUB'S other project, the Little League, also comes into the limelight at this time of year when virtually every Rotarian pitches in to conduct the annual fish fry to raise money to help meet Little League expenses. The fish fry will be held Friday at the Mahan Building on the Fairground. The event usually produces between $1,800 and $2,000 for the Little League. Mike Helfrich, the general chairman, reminded Rotarians to be at their assigned posts Friday night.

President Domenico, on behalf of the club, presented an honorary membership to Lloyd Rhoad, of Bloomville, the father of Rotarian C. Elton Rhoad and grandfather of John Rhoad. The elder Rhoad frequently has been a guest at Rotary meetings.

Charles Drake, of MTHS, was the only student guest and Jim Dunn, executive vice president of the Area Chamber of Commerce, was the guest of Domenico.

Visiting Rotarians included a delegation of six, President Bob McNeely, Dave Kohli, Art Dick, Gene Garrison, Ralph Ritts and Larry Hughes, from Mount Sterling; James Dickey, of Wilmington; Howard Bobo, of Cincinnati, and Ed Rogers, of London.

DARBYSHIRE NAMED — J. Meredith Darbyshire, Wilmington realtor, has been appointed by Gov. John J. Gilligan to serve a five-year term as a member of Ohio Recreation and Resources Commission. Ohio Perspective

Rural zoning gains across state

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For 25 years, long before ecology became a popular word, rural Ohioans have been making quiet and important decisions about land use, an Ohio State University rural sociologist says.

They call its rural zoning. It is already in effect in more than half of Ohio's 1,300 townships in 66 of the state's 88 counties.

"Rural zoning is one of the methods that persons concerned with land use and quality of the environment will be looking at and considering," said Sociologist James B. Mitchell of the Extension Service.

Most people know about city zoning, which regulates what types of building and what urban areas are used for. Rural zoning in a county or a township works much like that.

Residents of the rural area, or their representatives, must approve in advance any plans to use land differently than it has been used in the past.

Last year 102 Ohio townships in 35 counties argued over rural zoning. Although the issue was approved in only 35, Mitchell was not dismayed.

Rural zoning, the Ohio State sociologist contended, is "a valuable tool" in controlling land use and it deserves consideration. Still, he said a poorly administered zoning law could be detrimental.

In any case, interest in rural zoning appears to be growing, not decreasing.

Most of the rural zoning laws voted into effect in Ohio have come along a wide belt dissecting the state from southwest to northeast—roughly following the general thrust of Ohio population. The concept has been least popular in the sparsely settled southeastern corner of Ohio. "Generally, the less dense the population, the less awareness people have that there's a need for this type of control over land use," said Mitchell.

One land use problem the southeast does have is strip mining, but Mitchell doesn't think application of rural zoning has ever been tested in this area.

"I'm not sure it applies," he said. "Both strip mining and lumbering as extractive pursuits might fall into the same class as agriculture."

Rural zoning has been a quiet political issue. Although there has been organized opposition when the issue appeared on the ballot, the arguments center around the right of individual choice and freedom from governmental interference.

Old Fashioned Days planning under way

Plans of the annual Old Fashioned Bargain Days were discussed at a regular meeting of the Washington C. H. Downtown Business Association Wednesday morning in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

John Toby, of the Montgomery Wards store, who was named chairman of this year's Old Fashioned Bargain Days, pointed out that the event will be held Aug. 1-4. Toby said busness places will be contacted prior to the June 13 meeting of the Downtown Business Association in order to prepare for the four-day affairs.

The agenda also included discussion on a recent shoppers survey conducted by the Consumer Education class at Washington Senior High School. The group decided to compare the results of the recent survey with a similar one conducted four years ago to find any noticeable differences.

Mrs. Martha Reiff, chairman of the Downtown Beautification Committee, reported on the placing of tree boxes in the downtown area. It is hoped the committee will be able to place 24 of the trees in the downtown area, Mrs. Reiff said.

The meeting was conducted by Vice President Ray Downing.

Thot for the day:
When I was but a little girl, I heard my Mother's name,
And then I heard them speak of God, and that they were the same.
Now I have grown to womahood, and I found the two-apart,
But I feel I was not too wrong, for God was in her heart.

Cincy whacks Phillies, 7-1

Billingham registers fifth mound triumph

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Last year everybody was asking Jack Billingham how come he always got off to such a bad start. The question has changed. Now they're asking big Jack how come he's off to such a good start.

The 30-year-old Cincinnati righthander beat the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night 7-1 for his fifth victory against one loss. He pitched a strong nine-hitter, striking out seven and walking only one.

Last year at this time, Billingham was 0-5, nursing a tender shoulder and wondering if he'd ever win again.

Billingham attributes his quick getaway to runs.

"Everytime I go out there I get six or seven runs," he said. "Anyway, I think that bad start is a bum rap. Last season was the first time I really got off bad, and I wasn't pitching bad. I'm not making excuses, but I was in a lot of close games, those late inning 1-1 things. I wasn't getting six or seven runs."

The 6-foot-4 pitcher admitted, however, that he feels he's a better pitcher now than he was a year ago at the beginning of the season, He's more consistent.

"The World Series gave me confidence," said Billingham, who was the star of the series for the losing Reds. He pitched 13 2-3 innings, allowed six hits, no earned runs, won the third game, saved the fifth, and kept the Reds alive in the seventh until lifted for a pinchhitter in the fifth inning.

"The World Series is the top of the world for a ballplayer. It's a player's dream, and I was fortunate enough to have a good series," Billingham said.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson agreed with his pitcher, that the World Series had helped build Billingham's confidence. "He proved to himself that he had enough stuff to go out and win 20 games," Anderson declared. "His concentration is much better. He should be 6-0."Anderson said Billingham was going to have a good year, because he wants to win 20 games.

That's the difference, wanting to win 20," added Anderson. "A lot of pitchers wish to win 20, but don't want to make the sacrifices. Jack does."

Billingham didn't have an easy time despite the 7-1 score. The Phillies, behind rookie Dick Ruthven, were in the game until the eighth when Pete Rose singled home one run and Johnny Bench slammed a three-run homer.

The game turned in the fifth when the Reds led only 1-0. They had runners at second and third with two outs and Rose at bat. When Phillies' manager Danny Ozark decided to pitch to Rose with first base open, he opened the door for the second guessers. Rose singled home two runs.

Good baseball dictated walking the switch-hitting Rose so the righthanded Ruthven could work on the right-swinging Dave Concepcion. The Phillies disdained the walk, even when the count reached three balls, one strike.

Ozark defended his strategy, saying Concepcion (a lifetime .222 hitter) was more dangerous now than Rose (lifetime .309).

"Concepcion is hitting about .360 (actually .341) for one thing," said the Phillies Manager. "Pete got a couple of hits tonight (Tuesday) but he really hasn't been wearing anybody out. We were trying to work around him. The 3-2 pitch was supposed to be down, but he (Ruthven) got it up."

Ruthven said if he had to do it over again he would want to walk Rose.

"I tried to walk him on the 32 pitch," the pitcher said. "I tried to bounce it in the dirt, but got it up in his eyes. It was a stupid pitch. I couldn't have hung it to a worse guy," he said of the curve ball Rose ripped for the two-run single.

The Phillies cut the Reds lead to 3-1 in the seventh inning on three consecutive singles, the last by Denny Doyle. Ruthven left for a pinchhitter in the inning, and reliever Jim Lonborg gave up the four runs in the eighth. The loss was the first in the major leagues for Ruthven, whose victory was also over Cincinnati.

MT's explosion nets seventh win of year

Miami Trace's Panthers, erupting for eight runs in the fifth inning, bopped Springfield Northeastern 10-2 in a non-league game Tuesday night at the Panther diamond.

Head coach Dave Pellior's Panthers received solid 10-hit offensive fireworks in which a total of four players had two hits apiece in registering their seventh win 11 outings this spring.

Junior Randy Reiber, who picked up the mound victory for Miami Trace, led the offensive assault with a pair of triples and two runs-batted-in. Tony Grooms and Jeff Spears both had a single and a double apiece and Jay Mossbarger cracked a pair of singles.

REIBER WENT the distance for Miami Trace in notching his second win of the season. He scattered six hits, fanned nine and issued one free ticket.

Pfeifer named director of regional grid board

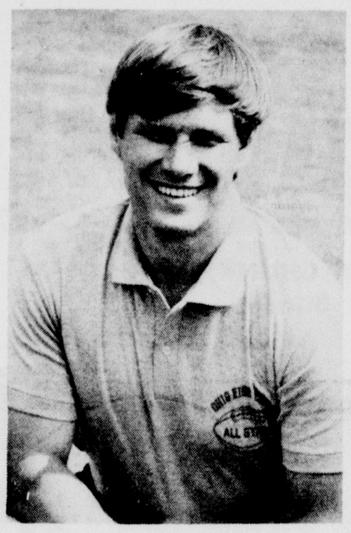

Maurice Pfeifer, veteran head football coach at Washington C.H., was named a regional director of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association in recent balloting.

Pfeifer, who has been the Blue Lion taskmaster for the past eight seasons and is dean of South Central Ohio League football coaches, will serve a two-year term as director of Region 14, which is the largest region in Ohio in area, but the smallest in population.

THERE ARE 16 regions in Ohio and the directors from those regions, plus the officers of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association serve in an advisory capacity to the Ohio High School Athletic Association on football matters in the state.

The new state football playoffs and summer conditioning programs were made possible through the work of the regional boards. The board also selects coaches for the annual Ohio High School North-South all-star summer football game.

Pfeifer served as an assistant coach last summer in the North-South all-star game.

Knicks stop L.A. Lakers

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was a hope shot," explained New York Knick forward Dave DeBusschere.

"I was looking for the free throws—it was just luck that the ball went in."

A horde of reporters were gathered in the New York trainer's room where the 6-foot-6 DeBusschere, an ice pack on his sore right knee, was describing the key play in the Knicks' 103-98 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden.

The Lakers had cut a 21-point New York lead down to two, 94-92, with one minute to go. Los Angeles was surging, having scored eight points in a row. The Knicks were disorganized. Walt Frazier had fouled out, and none of the Knicks was shooting well.

Knick forward Bill Bradley tried a jump shot from the right side. It missed, bounding high off the rim. The two centers, Willis Reed of New York and massive Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles, went for the rebound—with DeBusschere lurking alongside.

As a result, New York took a 3-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's championship playoffs. The Knicks can wrap up the best-of-7 series with a victory in Los Angeles Thursday night.

Bruce Ferris, of Sikeston, Mo., is the Murray State team captain, and Charles Carpenter, of Cincinnati, is another alternate captain.

The 1969 graduate of Washington Senior High School was an offensive and defensive tackle with Washington C.H.'s South Central Ohio League championship edition during the 1968 season. He was an All-SCOL selection two years and landed a berth on the Class AA All-Central District honorable mention list his senior year.

Firm rings bells, ends up in court

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Fairfield, Ohio, police have charged a shopping center operator with being a "bell ringer" businessman.

In Fairfield, it's against the law to ring a bell or use any other sound device to attract business.

"We've had nothing but praise for the carillon," said William Minnielli, 43. "We have had requests to turn it up."

One Fairfield resident, Robert Smith, apparently didn't agree. He signed the warrant.

The case goes to court May 22.

OU students win Athens nominations

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Two city council races will have Ohio University students as the Democratic candidates in the November general election.

Seven students sought nomination to council races in Tuesday's primary.

Michael J. McAlister beat three other students for party nomination in the First Ward. He will face Thomas Ruth, unopposed for the Republican nomination.

Gale D. Snoddy, a senior in sociology, ran third in a five-candidate Democratic slate for three at-large council seats and will be among candidates on the fall ballot.

Other Democrats winning places in the at-large races were Patricia Gyi, special assistant to Ohio University President Claude Sowle, and Jerry L. Adams, a university president.

Their Republican opponents for the at-large seats will be B. Tad Grover Jr., a bank president; Fred W. Weber II, an employe of the Athens Messenger, and Norman H. Dohn, a journlism professor at the university.

In other council nominations, Thomas H. Smith, a Democrat and university professor, defeated Bruce E. Mitchell, a student, for the nomination. Smith faces Republican Joe Johnson in the fall.

In the third Ward, Kenneth W. Collins, Republican incumbent, won nomination and will face Phyllis Katz, Democrat who was unopposed for the nomination.

In the Fourth Ward, Gregory W. Hill, Democrat and a university graduate now employed at the university television station, was nominated over student Mike Duffy. Hill faces Republican Charlie Laughlin in the fall election.

Opening lead - queen of hearts.

Many contracts fail due to unlucky distribution, but some of them can be rescued by means not readily apparent.

Let's say you're in six diamonds and West leads a heart. You win with the ace, expecting to make all the tricks, but when you lead the A-K of trumps, West shows out and you realize that even the small slam is now in danger.

However, all is not yet lost, for East may have to follow suit when you now play the K-Q-10 of spades. If he does, you can discard a heart on the fourth round of spades and so make the slam.

Unfortunately, East ruffs the third spade, cashes a heart, and down you go.

This is certainly an unlucky result, since the trumps could have been divided 3-2 or East might have had the simple decency to hold three or more spades. Nevertheless, the fact is that the contract might have come home with a slightly different method of play.

After seeing the 4-1 trump division, the best play is to cash the king of spades and play the ten to the ace. When you next lead the nine, it becomes far from easy for East to ruff — because he may think West has the queen.

East is apt to discard on the spade lead from dummy, because he may think your hand looks something like this:

In that case, he would hand you the slam by ruffing the nine but defeat you by discarding on it.

If he discarded, you would make the slam by crossing to dummy with a club and discarding a heart on the jack of spades. Your conscience might bother you for having stolen a slam you were not entitled to make, but that is a penalty you should feel happy to pay.

Ear Wax Out, Cough Vanishes

I feel silly when I tell my friends that a doctor cured my cough by removing wax from my ears.

It actually did happen. An irritating cough I had for three months disappeared the moment the wax came out.

Mrs. T.E.W., Ill.

Dear Mrs. W.:

You have made a significant scientific observation. This is an established fact that has been recognized by ear, nose and throat specialists for many years. They have noted that when they clean the outer ear canal with a cottontip applicator, some patients cough.

A cough is due to some irritation of the vagus nerve which is the largest nerve that descends from the brain and goes to the lungs and to the disphragm. A tiny, barely visible nerve that runs along the floor of the ear canal and touches the eardrum is connected with the vagus nerve and can be responsible for the cough you describe.

I recall removing a bead that had been lying for many months in the ear of a small boy. He, too, had a cough that had been difficult to control and to explain. When the bead was removed, the cough disappeared, to the delight of the parents and the child.

I get so tired that I hope I will be able to finish writing this letter.

After a few lines, my hands begin to shake. What can I do about this? I am 71 years old.

Mr. H.B., R.I.

Dear Mr. B.:

Such tremors can be caused by many conditions, especially in the older age groups. Many of these tremors do not exist until some activity or motion is begun.

Neurological conditions must be considered. Weakness of muscles, poor nutrition, and vascular disturbances may be responsible. Of course, the underlying cause must be found before any effort can be made to eliminate it.

There are a great many new and excellent drugs that can stabilize these tremors. Patients with Parkinson's disease, for example, are getting relief from the characteristic tremor of the hands, with the drug L-dopa.

A patient of mine who was unable to control a pen easily found her own way of handling this problem. She found she was able to type letters with surprisingly little effort. This might be beneficial to you especially if an electric typewriter were used because it takes so little energy.

You once suggested a drug to relieve severe leg cramps. I can't find the clipping. Would you repeat it?

Mr. D.N., N.J.

Dear Mr. N.:

Leg cramps that occur at night can be relieved by quinine. Other drugs used to dilate the blood vessels are also suggested by doctors.

Warm compresses applied to the muscle that is in spasm usually brings relief. An interesting suggestion was made by Dr. L. B. Lowe, of Roanoke, Va. He found that his patients could get relief from leg cramps by soaking their hands in hot water for a few minutes!

A judging team can be entered and it starts at 10:30 a.m. There will be a practice session (with horses) at 6:30 p.m. on May 29th to be held at the Fairgrounds arena.

Mike Ferguson gave a health report on "Healthy As A Horse" and each member was asked to name a habit that they thought their horse had. Other reports were given by Cincy Bright on "Riding Tips & Horse Sense" and Lisa Perrill (Safety) on "Scalding & Burning." Some members read their reports on "Improvements In And Around Their Barns."

Connally out to establish power base

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For John B. Connally, there is a job of political salesmanship ahead if he is to establish firmly his new Republican credentials in time for what looks like a crowded 1976 presidential contest.

As he switched parties, Connally said he sought no office, appointive or elective. That is the kind of thing politicians say three years in advance of a presidential campaign.

It is also the kind of thing other politicans discount.

Formally joining the GOP in its hour of Watergate trouble, Connally has been warmly greeted by the party establishment. But some of the same Republican leaders who welcomed him aboard are likely to be his rivals in the years immediately ahead.

When that time comes, men like Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Sen. Charles H. Percy may well be pointing out that Connally after all is a fledgling Republican with a long Democratic past.

Agnew, Percy, and Govs. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California all are potential entries in 1976 Republican presidential competition. There may be more.

So Connally clearly is not going to move to the top of his new party without a fight.

Having forsaken his Democratic ties, the former Texas governor now needs to get his lines open and his alliances made in the Republican party.

He has the advantage of his role as head man of Democrats for Nixon, an assignment that demonstrated his political preference, and leaves him out of what has become the Watergate scandal.

Associates had said Connally's long anticipated political switch was delayed because of the Watergate controversy. He denies that, saying the scandal had nothing to do with his timing.

Monday, he turned up in Key Biscayne, Fla., to confer with President Nixon at the President's request. He left without taking a new assignment in the administration, but that may yet happen, at least on a part-time or temporary basis.

There had been reports he might be offered appointment as secretary of defense, but the word was that he wasn't interested.

There have been suggestions that he might have had that job in the first Nixon term had he not decided in the waning days of the 1968 campaign to stick with the Democratic ticket instead of openly boosting Nixon in Texas.

The President is a Connally admirer. He once said the Texan could handle any job in the nation or the world. Nixon is said to have told a White House visitor early this year that Connally is likely to top the GOP ticket next time.

More recently, Nixon has been quoted as saying that Illinois' Sen. Percy will never be nominated if he has anything to say about it, in an angry response to Percy's pressure for a special prosecutor in the Watergate case.

But it now appears that Nixon may not have much to say about it. He would enter 1976 as a politician serving his last year in his last office, with dwindling powers to reward or punish politically.

And whatever the outcome of the Watergate case, it will scar the administration.

Republicans are not likely to take their 1976 directions from an outgoing President whose 1972 campaign was pocked by that scandal.

Switching parties a week ago, Connally was asked what he intends to do next. John Milton said 'They also serve who only stand and wait,' so hopefully, that's the way I can play it for a while," he replied.

But the people who shape Republican politics don't spend much time reading the poetry of John Milton.

States move to reimpose capital punishment laws

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lawmakers in about a dozen states have restored the death penalty, and measures to bring back capital punishment are under consideration in at least 15 more states.

An Associated Press survey showed that measures reinstating the death sentence for certain crimes have been enacted in Florida, Montana, Nebraska, Georgia, Connecticut, Nevada, Arkansas, Wyoming, and Utah. Tennessee legislators also have passed capital punishment bills that are awaiting governors signatures.

In Ohio, capital punishment is to be restored on Jan. 1, 1974, under a revised criminal code bill signed by Gov. John Gilligan last Dec. 22. Capital murder newly defined consists of premeditated murder, murder by concealed weapon and a felony murder.

The Supreme Court ruled last July, in cases involving Texas and Georgia, that the death penalty as imposed in most states was unconstitutional. The ruling left the way open for capital punishment to be reinstated, providing it is imposed uniformly.

Most of the new laws and the pending measures list specific crimes for which the death penalty may be imposed—usually the killing of a policeman or fireman and various other types of murder.

The most recent restoration of the death penalty came in Connecticut and Nevada where action was completed last week. In both states, the conditions leading to imposition of the death penalty include the murder of a policeman or fireman on duty, murder for pay and murder committed by prisons on inmates serving life sentences.

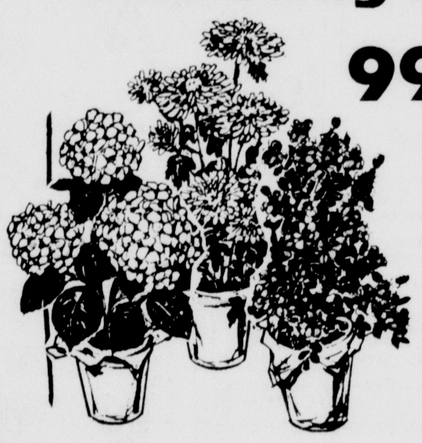

Arguments over just when the death penalty should be imposed—if at all—have stalled capital punishment bills in several states.
